

Oklahoma Dragon Of Klan Arrested On Rioting Charge

Complaint Issued Following Dr. Maupin's Testimony Before Military Court.

WALTON DENIES RIGHT OF SOLONS TO CONVENE

Governor Declares Majority of House Belongs to K. K. K. and Calls Session "Klux Meeting."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Oklahoma City, Okla., September 21.—Charges of riot were filed here tonight against N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma realm of the Ku Klux Klan.

Jewett was charged with implication in the flogging of E. R. Merriman who, it is alleged, was whipped a year ago.

Jewett later was arrested. He was released immediately on bond of $1,000.

The information against the grand dragon was filed in justice court by County Attorney J. K. Wright, on the basis of evidence gathered by the military court sitting here.

Dr. A. A. Maupin, a witness called before the military court testified that Jewett had stated to him that he (Jewett) was the one who applied the lash to Merriman. Dr. Maupin testified that he was a former member of the Klan.

County Attorney Wright, who filed the charges against the grand dragon, admitted to the military court that he had paid the membership fee in the Klan, according to the record of the court.

Jewett, Dr. Maupin charged in his testimony today before the court, warned local klansmen at a meeting some months ago that there had been too much talk about activities of the Klan. The grand dragon, Maupin alleged, told the klansmen that "the persons who had been doing things around Oklahoma City were liable for both McAlister and Leavenworth penitentiaries."

Dr. Maupin in his testimony before the military court charged that Jewett had stated to him regarding the Merriman whipping:

"I will have you know that I am the man who laid that on. I led the party. I knew what I was doing. I am the fellow who held the whip and put it on his back and made him confess."

Merriman had been charged by Jewett with maintaining an intimacy with a married woman, Dr. Maupin testified.

The flogging of Merriman, it is alleged, took place on March 7, 1922. The complaining witness is believed to be Ellis R. Merriman, a laundry wagon driver, who is alleged to have been ordered to leave the city in March, 1922.

County Attorney Wright, with his assistant, Mont Powell, and the complaining witness were escorted with Colonel W. S. Key, military commandant, for nearly an hour. A few minutes after they emerged from the council room the announcement of the filing of the charge against Jewett was made by Wright.

Grand Dragon Jewett recently voiced the declaration that "Governor Walton and all his cohorts will never be able to break the power of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma."

LAW LONG CHEATED BY CLEVER 'DUMMY' CLAIMS ITS TOLL

Bridgeport, Conn., September 21.—Erasing punishment for causing the death of his father-in-law and the wounding of two others for more than six years by playing the part of a "dummy," Ferdinando Laudati today found his tongue to plead guilty to manslaughter, and was sentenced to from four to fifteen years in state's prison.

On March 10, 1917, Laudati shot and killed his father-in-law, Ernesto Pomp, while the latter was in his Stamford home giving a music lesson, and wounded Pomp's wife and a music student.

Committed to an insane asylum at Middletown, Laudati assumed the role of a half-wit.

SWISS DRUG RING IS SUPPLY SOURCE TO U. S. SMUGGLERS

Operations Are Bared Before Meeting of League of Nations Commission on Narcotics.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Geneva, September 21.—The charge that great quantities of harmful drugs are being manufactured in Switzerland clandestinely imported to the United States and Canada caused a stir during today's discussion by the league of nations opium commission which yesterday decided to recommend an international conference for the promotion of the fight against opium.

Dame Edith Lyttelton, England, expressed regret that Switzerland, which had not yet ratified The Hague narcotics convention, should be turning out drugs based on opium and morphine and smuggling them by ingenious means into the United States.

She said that Swiss public opinion should be aroused and that the Swiss government should act promptly in the premises.

Gustave Ador, former president of Switzerland, quickly protested against "these grave accusations." He insisted that Switzerland was doing everything possible in the situation and hoped to ratify the convention next year.

Canadian Products Probed.

Mr. Graham, the Canadian member of the commission, read documents which he declared proved that drugs were being fraudulently exported from Switzerland to both Canada and the United States. Other speakers then intervened and saved what appeared to be developing into a most embarrassing situation. They expressed the conviction that Switzerland would do what was necessary.

A resolution was adopted asking the council of the league to press Switzerland, Argentina, Columbia, Costa Rica, Latvia, Lithuania, Paraguay, and Persia to sign The Hague convention.

At the close of the session Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pennsylvania, delivered a speech which brought forth much applause. He expressed deep satisfaction over what had been accomplished at Geneva on the opium question and said pleasant things about the secretary of the league of nations, Mr. Porter remarked that opium was a big question and could not be settled in a few minutes; but, he said, by patient endeavor, the goal would be reached.

Irish Member Active.

Ireland entered vigorously on the stage of league activity today when Marquis MacSwiney insisted that a representative of Celtic culture should be added to the permanent commission on international co-operation, the membership of which will be increased so as to include various world cultural groups. Ireland, said Marquis MacSwiney, was the natural country to represent the culture of the Celts, whose apostles had contributed so much to European civilization.

The disarmament commission of the league concluded its first reading of the proposed treaty of mutual assistance. The text of the treaty will be reported shortly to the assembly, though a member of points are still to be definitely drafted by the jurists.

One point submitted by the experts seems to be based on the idea that the United States one day will sign this treaty. It declares that the treaty will be considered as entering into force when it has been ratified by the United States.

The attitude of Italy toward the league of nations having become a closed issue through the decision to turn over the entire covenant to the jurists for interpretation, there is a general feeling of relief in Geneva. However, Herfur Zahle, president of the league assembly's committee on finance, delivered a jolt today to those who are excessively optimistic about the league. He told the assembly that there were clouds of disappointment and distrust which were darkening the league's horizon. He said the deleterious wanted something accomplished on disarmament, the private manufacture of arms and the institution of compulsory arbitration.

FOUR BASIC CASES CONFRONT BENCH OF SUPREME COURT

Critical Eyes To Watch Highest Tribunal When It Assumes Work on October 1.

ALIEN LAND LAW
GETS FINAL TEST

Medicinal Liquor Appeal Decision Will Affect "Prescription" Business in United States.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, September 21.—The supreme court, faced with a docket full of cases involving fundamental issues, will be closely watched by those demanding that its powers be reduced, when it begins to grind out its decisions in two weeks.

The court must for its fall session October 1, and the justices are now returning to start preparing decisions.

Measures restricting the power of the court have already been prepared by Senator Borah, of Idaho, and others. Most of them are aimed at abolition of the majority-of-one rule, which came under such fire last spring when the minimum wage law was knocked out by a single dissenting vote. The measures framed provide in different ways for increasing the majority necessary to declare an act of congress unconstitutional.

"This session of the court will be particularly significant because of several pending cases which concern the public intimately, including the alleged sugar 'squeeze' last February and March, medicinal liquor, alien land cases, and water power rights.

Four Big Cases Pending.

The principal pending cases affecting the general public interest are:

1. The appeal made by Attorney General Daugherty from the decision of federal judges in New York, who refused to enjoin sugar exchanges, which the department of justice claims were responsible by speculation for the skyrocket in sugar prices last February and March.

2. An appeal by a group of California physicians from the state supreme court, challenging the right of the federal government to say how much liquor a doctor can prescribe.

3. Three alien land cases in California and Washington. Questioning the validity of state laws which keep aliens from owning land, and which are specifically directed at the Japanese.

4. A case brought by the state of New York, contesting the constitutionality of the federal water power act, in which it is claimed that the allotment of water power rights belongs to the states.

Wet Prescriptions Important.

All of these cases touch very closely the life of the public either of the whole country or of large sections.

The medicinal liquor tests case from California may open up this phase of the prohibition question again. The Knox injunction case in New York, which challenged the right of the federal government to fix the amount of liquor that a doctor may prescribe, has not yet been appealed by the department of justice to the supreme court. However, the matter may be determined in the test case from California, which questions both a state law and the federal law.

California is very jealous of their state law restricting Japanese from owning land, and will watch this case closely. The water power case from New York involves the whole question of the jurisdiction of the federal government and the states in this important matter, and thousands of dollars in property rights in the west hang on the decision.

HARRIS INDORSED

Fayetteville, Ga., 21.—Senator Harris spoke to a large crowd at the court house here Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. The audience showed its appreciation of Senator Harris' work in the senate by unanimously endorsing his record at the end of his speech.

A New Hat Pattern Service for Women

The great popularity of the dress pattern service conducted by The Constitution, which popularity is evidenced by the fact that from 6,000 to 9,000 requests for dress patterns are received each month from women readers of this newspaper, has brought an award to women leaders.

"The Jane Hedden Hat Service"

an idea of patterning millinery that originated in the millinery department of the University of Chicago, and is now used by eleven hundred colleges and universities in the United States.

"The Jane Hedden Hat Service" will be conducted along the same lines as the dress pattern service. This valuable service will start in the woman's section of next Monday's Constitution.

MOBILE WINS CUT IN FREIGHT RATES TO PACIFIC POINTS

Mobile, Ala., September 21.—A victory for Mobile in its effort to have the recently published rates from Mobile to interior points on Pacific coast business suspended was announced here today following receipt of notice from the interstate commerce commission that the petition for suspension had been granted.

This proposed change is of great interest here, as it will affect the big business which Mobile has secured during the last two years from the Pacific coast. The freight is moved here on coast steamers and distributed to points in the interior. Thousands of tons of this freight are handled every month through this port.

FLOGGED CONVICT NOW IN HOSPITAL CLAIMS SOLICITOR

Alabama Prison Probe Proceeds Before Grand Jury Despite Executive Ban.

Birmingham, Ala., September 21.—According to unofficial information obtained today, but later confirmed by Solicitor James G. Davis, one of the convicts flogged at Banner mines on September 12 following the mutiny, by order of President L. A. Boyd of the convict board of supervisors, is now in a serious condition in the hospital at Banner mines. Solicitor Davis when asked to confirm the report said "it is a fact."

This information came as a sensation to the second day's grand jury investigation of the Banner outbreak in which expensive machinery was blown up and for which a number of convicts were flogged by order of the convict board.

Among those to testify today was President Boyd of the convict board. He remained in the hospital room for nearly an hour and a half and he had with him the "record of punishments" which the grand jury examined.

When the grand jury resumes its inquiry Monday, Dr. Blair, Roy Nolen, of the convict board; Kenneth Wood, a convict at Flat Top, who was transferred after an anti-lease system committee had talked to him at Banner, and Warden J. D. Evans of the Banner camp will be called upon to tell what they know of conditions there.

"If Mr. Boyd fails to produce these men before the grand jury Monday, I will either attack him and the men or cite Boyd for contempt of court," declared the Solicitor. "I am going through with this investigation. I will not be bluffed from my course."

One of the exhibits brought before the grand jury today was the lash alleged to have been used to whip the convicts at Banner mines. The strap is about four and a half feet long made of one, two and three ply leather. It has a two-handed grip and it is unofficially reported twenty-one lashes were given twelve men and ten lashes to five prisoners who participated in the outbreak.

Others who testified before the grand jury today were officials of the Pratt Consolidated Coal company, who operate the mine and the Banner prisoner attacks. Dr. B. S. Pettus, Banner physician; Deputy Warden T. L. Smith; C. H. Frazier, former warden; H. E. McCormack, vice president and general manager of the Pratt company and Judge J. J. Mayfield, all testified.

Dr. F. E. Blair, prison doctor was present but did not testify.

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS TO PLAN GEORGIA G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

J. L. Phillips, chairman of the Georgia republican state central committee, is expected to arrive in Atlanta from Washington, D. C., early next week, according to Louis H. Crawford, acting chairman.

While in Atlanta Chairman Phillips intends to perfect preliminary plans for the organization of republican resources in the state for the 1924 presidential contest. Washington office of the committee have been opened in the Munsey building.

Stephens explained that the advance in costs must be taken out of stove sizes, because on the steam sizes, sold in competition with bituminous, costs will remain unchanged. Pinchot's 60-cent cost advance estimate, he described as "absurd," as it would be a moderate figure, in his estimation.

Several old line companies, are basing their new prices on a 90-cent or 50-cent advance.

BOY IS KILLED IN FALL

Billie Steakley, Jr., Dies Friday Night.

Billie Steakley, Jr., four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Steakley, 619 East North avenue, died Friday night shortly after he tripped and fell over the cement coping around the yard of his home.

He was thrown so heavily to the ground that he died within a few minutes, time from internal injuries. An ambulance from H. M. Patterson & Sons made a record run to the Steakley home but all efforts to revive him failed.

He is survived by his parents and one aunt, Miss Willie Brown. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Sons, undertakers in charge.

HARD COAL PRICE GOES UP DESPITE PINCHOT PROGRAM

Railroads and Retailers Do Not Accept Job of Offsetting Mine Wage Hike.

STOVE SIZES MUST
ABSORB ALL ADVANCE

Steam Fuel Must Meet Competition of Bituminous Product and Hold Level.

New York September 21.—(United News.)—Despite Governor Pinchot's insistence that the increased labor cost in anthracite mining be found elsewhere than in the pockets of consumers, hard coal prices advanced sharply Friday at several points in the eastern area, at other points dealers were cautiously avoiding orders for deferred delivery in anticipation of a price advance.

Anthracite prices at the pit rose generally in the Wilkesbarre district. An increase of 60 cents a ton at the mines was announced by the Susquehanna Collieries company on egg, stove and chestnut. On the same basis the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company elevated its price 50 cents. At the mines of the Delaware and Hudson company, the average rise was 70 cents a ton.

Although some mining officials predicted that the retailers would be obliged to absorb the advance in price, several cities reported higher charges to consumers shortly after receipt of the new list. At Albany, the average increase was 70 cents a ton, on coal mined under the new wage scale. The price named was $14.35 a ton, with a 25 cent discount for cash.

Price Absorbers Fail.

Foreseeing the likelihood of an advance, Governor Pinchot specified that the added labor cost of 60 cents a ton in the strike settlement, should not reach the consumer. Ten cents of the amount, he proposed, should be absorbed by the operators and 50 cents by the railroads, in freight reductions.

Pinchot requested President Coolidge's assistance in carrying out this proposal and suggested an immediate downward revision of coal freight by the interstate commerce commission. He promised to initiate such revision promptly on railroads in Pennsylvania through the public service commission of that state.

However, no definite steps in this direction have been taken thus far, and Friday's increase merely substantiated the declaration of the operators at Harrisburg that any wage advance would mean higher coal.

With the resumption of anthracite shipments, the movement to use substitutes for anthracite wherever possible has faded away. Bituminous screened coal and coke, proposed as substitutes, have virtually disappeared.

In New York city, prices for domestic sizes of anthracite ranged from $9.05 to $9.25 at wholesale, with some small dealers charging as high as $13.50, and the independents quoting prices between $10.50 and $12.50. Retailers were waiting complete lists from the mines before announcing their prices.

Supply Is Plentiful.

Reports from the piers indicate a plentiful supply of anthracite on hand. At Hampton roads, 262,679 tons were reported.

Nevertheless, a general advance of at least 75 cents a ton in New York is confidently predicted by leading dealers. Roderick Stephens, president of the Stephens Fuel Co., with an extensive metropolitan clientele, said stove coal would go to $14.50 and probably $15 at retail. On emergency orders prices have been $15.50 since September 1, which is $1.50 more than last winter's price.

Stephens explained that the advance in costs must be taken out of stove sizes, because on the steam sizes, sold in competition with bituminous, costs will remain unchanged. Pinchot's 60-cent cost advance estimate, he described as "absurd," as it would be a moderate figure, in his estimation.

Several old line companies, are basing their new prices on a 90-cent or 50-cent advance.

Fate of Stigall Will Rest Today In Jury's Hands

Sale of Cotton Crop Is Enjoined By Georgia Co-Op

Case Will Be Heard by Judge Franklin in Waynesboro Court.

J. D. Beckum, of Blythe, Ga., a prominent farmer of Burke county, is the first member to be enjoined on a charge of failure to deliver his 1923 cotton crop according to his contract with the Georgia Cotton Growers' Cooperative association, according to announcement made at association headquarters here Friday.

The restraining order was signed by Judge A. L. Franklin, judge of the superior court at Waynesboro, and date of hearing the petition of the association to make the injunction permanent was set for October 4 at Waynesboro.

Petition of the association alleges that Beckum, in violation of his contract, has already sold a part of his cotton outside of the association and refuses to deliver the remainder of his 1923 crop, in accordance with the terms of his membership contract which he signed in June of this year.

The order of Judge Franklin sets out that "until the further order of the court the defendant, J. D. Beckum, is hereby restrained and enjoined from selling or otherwise encumbering or disposing of any of his cotton grown by him in the year 1923."

The association is represented by Aaron Sapiro, general counsel; Pryor & Middlebrooks, Atlanta, and Calaway & Howard, of Augusta.

It was further announced by the association that vigorous prosecution would be started against all contract violators by enjoining members who fail to comply with their contracts and by filing suits for damages against all members who previously have sold cotton outside of the association.

In commenting on the action of the association, President J. E. Conwell states "the cotton cooperative is a business organization and all members have entered into a solemn and binding contract, which is the basis of our operations."

"Our board of directors has no other option except to see that all contracts are lived up to and a close investigation is being made of all reported violations and action will be taken against all willful violators, which is being insisted upon by the thousands of loyal members in all sections of the state."

The court announced that the jury would be charged with the law on murder, voluntary manslaughter and justifiable homicide.

Will Go to Jury.

Two hours were allowed each side in the argument of the case. Attorney William Schley Howard will open the final argument for the defense at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and will be followed by Solicitor General John A. Boykin. Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton superior court, stated that it would not take more than thirty minutes to charge the jury. In all probability, he stated, the case will rest in the hands of the jury by 12 o'clock.

The afternoon session was devoted mainly to examination of witnesses. Witness after witness was introduced in an effort to impeach both witnesses for the state and for the defense. Stigall took the stand Friday morning.

DISHES PREPARED FROM THE PLATE OF BEEF
New England Boiled Dinner—Requires 2 pounds corned beef, 1 small head cabbage, 6 small turnips, 6 small carrots, 6 small beets, potatoes. Wipe the meat and tie securely in shape. Put in a kettle and cover with cold water, bring slowly to the boiling point, boil for a few minutes, remove scum and reduce heat. Finish cooking at a lower temperature. Remove to hot platter and cook the vegetables in the liquid form which the meat has been removed. If too salty add hot water. Too much salt will wilt the vegetables and spoil the flavor. The beets should be cooked separately or canned beets may be used. If not too salty, the liquid makes an excellent soup. To serve: Place the meat in the center of the platter and arrange around it border of the various vegetables. Sprinkle with chopped parsley or garnish with sprigs of parsley. The cooked head of cabbage should be cut in eighths. Beef Plate—Stuffed and Braised—Requires 4 pounds beef plate, 1 small onion, chopped fine, 2 cups bread crumbs, 1 green pepper, chopped fine, salt and pepper. Time to cook, three hours. Method: Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, lay out flat in baking pan, spread with dressing made of the bread crumbs and seasonings with liquid to moisten. Place in a hot oven to brown, after 15 minutes reduce the heat, add four cups boiling water, cover and cook at a low temperature three hours, basting every half hour and turning two or three times to cook evenly on all sides.

MOTHER SUCCUMBS; TRIPLET SONS LIVE
Oxford, N. C., September 21.—Mrs. Margaret Hester Ramsay, 55, is dead here today, but three baby boys, born several hours before the mother's death, live as her last contribution to the manhood of the nation.
Mrs. Ramsay's death was attributed by her physicians to the physical shock of the triple ordeal. She was a daughter of William Hester and a sister of John W. Hester, prominent Oxford lawyer, and Captain H. B. Hester, of the United States army.

20th Century Youth Warmly Defended; Will Outgrow Jazz
Chicago, September 21.—If twentieth century youth had "burning ears" today there was a righteous cause. Around the present generation was thrown thousands of words at the sessions of the international convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the majority by far in its defense.
The "older boys" rather were the center of attack. Fathers, with their sons and the heirs of other families, were in joint convention to hear several speakers tell them what they could do in the church, at home and in the school to stop what they termed "the popular indoor sport of flaying the 'jazz crazed' youth of today."
"Frankly, my brethren," said John H. Frizzell, of Philadelphia, "I believe we are largely to blame. Twentieth century youth, charged in many quarters as being about the most thoughtless, careless, ungrateful and generally unregenerate lot the world has ever known, give me no great worry. The present generation will outgrow most of its 'distemper,' just as it did the croup, measles and the mumps."
"The more I see of boys and their fathers, the more I am convinced of the difficulty boys have in obeying the fifth commandment," he continued. "The average boy is right at heart at his mistakes and failures are largely the reflection of our short comings—we men who moralize so much and fail so often in our leadership and example—who talk so much about our young people and do so little to really help them."
"The trouble with most boys is the fathers, as a great many of us are far more interested in being successful business or professional men than we are in being successful fathers, and that is why we are not satisfied with our boys, or with the present generation; that is why we wonder what is the matter with our churches and schools."

AUTOS ARE FIRST PRODUCT OF U. S.
Washington, September 21.—Ladies and gentlemen, the automobile—America's most valuable manufacture today.
After steadily rising from an indifferent product with an uncertain future some 25 years ago, the automobile commanded third place in the rank of the nation's most valuable industrial products two years ago. In 1921 it was topped by packing and petroleum products.
Today, according to the latest government census of manufactures, the automobile leads them all. The number of motor vehicles produced in the United States this year will be between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000, according to official estimates. Taking the national automobile chamber of commerce's figures that the average value of a passenger car is $750 and that of a truck $1,500, the estimates conclude that this year's output and value of the manufacture will be divided about thus:
Three million four hundred thousand passenger cars, valued at $2,550,000,000; 400,000 trucks, valued at $600,000,000.
A total output of 3,800,000 automobiles, with a value of over $3,000,000,000.
In 1921 America's most valuable products were listed in the following order: Meat packing products, $2,200,000,000; petroleum products, $1,727,000,000; and automobiles $1,696,000,000. Since then meat and petroleum products have fallen in value while automobiles have almost doubled.
On July 1 last there were over 13,000,000 passenger and truck motor vehicles in operation in this country—one to every nine men, women and children. This showed an increase in cars used of over 25 per cent in four years.
In Des Moines, women detectives, posing "flappers," trapped 115 automobile "mashers" in one day recently.

Forfeited Contract Ruling Arouses Florida Realtors
Miami, Fla., September 21.—Real estate men of Miami and property holders generally are greatly aroused over the supreme court ruling, word of which reached here yesterday, which holds that money paid on a forfeited contract for real estate can not be retained by the seller.
The decision was handed down in the case of D. D. Rawlins versus Linda Behny Taylor of this city and reversed the ruling of the lower court. In 1920 Rawlins sold to Mrs. Taylor a residence in this city for $7,500, receiving $1,500 cash and later collecting $140 more. Sometime thereafter, when Mrs. Taylor was unable to meet her payments, Rawlins declared the contract forfeited, repossessed the property and retained payments already made. This was done in accordance with the specific provision of the contract, but the supreme court held that such a provision was invalid. There is much speculation here as to the effect this ruling will have, not only on future real estate dealings, but also upon the thousands of contracts which have been forfeited heretofore. Real estate men predict the ruling will mean the passing of the form of transfer known as the contract for deed, claiming that under this interpretation the seller has no protection.

He will be arraigned late this afternoon before George B. Mellott, United States commissioner.

Cult Member Asks Receiver For David's House
Grand Rapids, Mich., September 21. Dissolution of the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Mich., and appointment of a receiver for the colony's numerous properties are asked in a suit filed in United States district court here today by Mrs. Estella A. Meldrim, for 20 years a member of the cult.

Mrs. Meldrim, who is 50 years of age, asks enforcement of property claims aggregating $200,000, exclusive of interest and costs.

In the bill of complaint Mrs. Meldrim is made the assignee of Russell L. Hansel, a former member of the colony, who has filed a claim for about $11,000.

This is the first time dissolution of the cult has been asked from within its own circle. The bill of complaint also cites "King" Benjamin Purnell, colony leader and self-styled "seventh messenger angel," as being guilty of misconduct.

Mrs. Meldrim is the mother of Keith Meldrim, alleged confidante and right hand woman of Benjamin. The daughter is described in the bill as an "officer, executive director, trusted confidante, advisor and intimate of Purnell." The bill sets forth that in addition to her own part in the rites at Shiloh, Purnell's residence at the House of David, Edith Meldrim "has been used to get other girls into the power of Purnell." She is not made a defendant, however.

Estella Meldrim Mills, another daughter, who was expelled from the colony in 1906 because of her open criticism of Purnell's alleged practices, is expected to be a witness for her mother.

DIVORCEE IS HELD IN VALDOSTA JAIL

Statenville, Ga., September 21.—Georgia court history was made here yesterday when Mrs. Joe Copeland after being convicted of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary, had to be taken from the court room under a heavy guard and rushed to a neighboring county for safe keeping.

Mrs. Copeland was placed on trial here Wednesday on a charge of murder in connection with the death of John Roberts, of Mayday, Ga. Since the shooting high feeling, officers say, has prevailed because of the prominence and the many relatives of Roberts and Mrs. Copeland residing in this vicinity.

When the trial started large crowds came here resulting in armed guards being placed at all entrances to the court house. Throughout the trial, however, there was no demonstration.

Reports from Valdosta today say Mrs. Copeland and her armed escort arrived there safely. She is now confined in the Lowndes county jail awaiting appeal.

All day yesterday armed guards patrolled the court house. The crowds in the court room and outside caused considerable disturbance when the verdict was read but were held in check by the officers.

Mrs. Copeland had pleaded self-defense. She testified she shot Roberts after he had struck her with a stick when she and her companion, E. A. Goodson, engaged in a dispute with Roberts at the Mayday railroad station. The pistol was carried in a paper bag, along with her toilet articles, she testified. She jerked it from the bag, she testified, when Roberts had accused her of improper relations with Goodson and after he had struck her.

Other witnesses corroborated her story.

After the shooting Mrs. Copeland fled to a nearby woods and Goodson boarded a train for Jacksonville, which arrived at Mayday soon after the affair. Mrs. Copeland was apprehended the next day and two nights later, Goodson was arrested at the home of a relative in Jacksonville. He was returned to Echols county and held on a charge of misdemeanor.

SAVANNAH SCHOOLS WILL ASK NEW LEVY

Savannah, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Announcement is made today that the board of education of Savannah and Chatham county will, under the new law and recent court decision as a basis, ask for an additional tax levy of two and a half mills for schools. It is said this will raise nearly a quarter of a million for schools. The system has been on short rations for several years, as to buildings and funds for operating. The schools of Savannah closing much earlier in the spring when money gave out. Several bond issue elections for schools have failed of passage.

A common superstition at one time was that magnetic mountains caused ships to fall to pieces by drawing from them their iron nails.

GAS EXPERIMENT HALTED BY BLAST

Washington, September 21.—The death early today of James E. Kennedy, of Selma, Ala., one of the bureau of standards experts injured in the laboratory explosion yesterday brought the number killed to four. Five others who were injured in the accident remained in the hospital today in more or less critical condition.

The four experts who lost their lives in the explosion and the five others who were injured had just completed experiments which are expected to save 500,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year.

In their study of evaporation, bureau officials said today, the laboratory force had discovered methods for preventing huge waste from this cause and had prepared full charts of great economic value.

The experiments had been proceeding for several months, it was said, and had just reached the stage of a final report on the findings.

Another task recently undertaken by the victims of the explosion, which was the most serious in the history of the bureau, was the testing of the engines of the navy aircraft. In a specially constructed chamber the motors of the craft were put through a series of experiments, from which data was developed for naval engineers showing the amount and grade of fuel needed at every foot of altitude up to six miles, which required carburetor adjustments at the varying heights. The air within the laboratory during the experiments was controlled in such a way as to simulate low and high altitudes, while the motors were kept running.

Secretary Hoover has ordered an investigation of the accident, which officials believe was caused by an accumulation of gas set off in some manner by a spark.

The exact cause was expected to remain in doubt, however, until the inquiry had recovered sufficiently to be questioned.

CONCILIATORY VOICE IN LEAGUE

Geneva, September 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Switzerland carried a voice of conciliation into the assembly of the league of nations which convened today after almost a week's rest when ex-President Motta congratulated both the council of the league and the conference of ambassadors on the happy settlement of the Greco-Italian dispute.

M. Motta declared the council had followed the spirit of the league covenant and expressed the hope that now the council had decided to permit the jurists to interpret the articles of the covenant the assembly would accept of its decision and not press for debate on the issues involved by Italy's attitude toward the document on which the league is founded.

M. Motta declared that in his judgment the league had accomplished great things, but that it could not achieve all that was hoped for until the time arrived when the league had become universal.

Italian Incident.

Further evidence that the Italian incident had ceased to be a dangerous issue for the assembly was forthcoming when J. J. Loucheur, of Holland, and Dr. Nansen, of Norway, who were the movement for quick action on Italy's challenge to the covenant, mounted the rostrum and approved the council's decision to hold a judicial inquiry into the meaning of the covenant. Dr. Nansen said he favored sending the covenant immediately to the permanent court of international justice for an advisory, interpretative opinion. He insisted that the council should inform the assembly later as to the exact procedure taken.

Viscount Ishii, president of the council, explained that the council had not yet decided whether the general interpretation of the covenant should be left to selected jurists or turned over to the exact procedure taken.

Views on Inquiry.

The conviction appears to be growing among the delegates that the inquiry launched by the council will serve the best interests of the league and strengthen the force of the covenant.

Dr. Nansen declared everything showed the power of the league for good was increasing daily, but he regretted it had been unable to help in the settlement of the reparations problem.

In the name of the smaller states, "whose only wish was to see the league fall into chaos and the whole of European civilization be imperiled."

Railroads 420 feet long were recently laid on a street railway line in Washington, D. C.

Views on League Change, Declares Oscar Underwood

Chicago, September 21.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama's candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, is no longer a strong advocate of the league of nations, according to an interview credited today by The Chicago Tribune.

The following statement was attributed to the senator: "I am no longer a strong advocate of the league of nations. My original views are well known. However, on my trip abroad I saw the league at its best. Developments then and subsequently have changed my attitude. The failure of the league to function in the dispute between Italy and Greece has much to do with this change."

The senator also said he did not think the league would be an issue in the approaching presidential campaign. "The present administration's lack of a definite foreign policy, and its failure to achieve any notable accomplishments at home, will furnish the best democratic campaign material," the senator was quoted by The Tribune as saying.

Senator Underwood, who was once warring against the league, was in Chicago on his way to Washington. He had been on a fishing trip at Eagle River, Wis.

G. O. P. RAPPELLED BY UNDERWOOD

Chicago, September 21.—The republican party in the coming session of congress "will do little except mark time, fill the pork barrel and study its various candidates for the presidential nomination," Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, declared in a statement here last night.

"I don't think the republicans are going to do anything except drift until the election next year," declared the Alabama senator, whose friends are supporting him for the democratic presidential nomination.

The league of nations, he said, will not be an issue in the coming campaign. "But the fact that the republican party flunked completely on European affairs will be," he said.

DEMOCRATS PLAN FOR UNDERWOOD

Dallas, Texas, September 21.—Democrats favorable to Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, as democratic presidential candidate in 1924, were invited to attend a meeting here on Monday, October 1, "for the purpose of perfecting an organization" on behalf of Mr. Underwood, in a call issued today. Among the names appearing on the call were former Secretary Joseph W. Bailey, former Governor Oscar B. Colquhoun, District Judge Charles A. Pippin, of Dallas, and Mayor Louis Blaylock, of Dallas.

CURIOSITY IS NEEDED Often Aid in Saving Men, Declares Evangelist.

"Thank God there's no patent on the plan of salvation," was Rev. W. H. Holcomb's exclamation as he told at Wesley memorial church Friday evening how Zacharias "got religion while hiding down a tree, while Master made him make haste and come down. The big thing isn't how you got salvation, but whether you've got it at all."

Zacharias wanted to see Jesus. Some say it was idle curiosity. I wish I could get every man's curiosity aroused about Jesus.

"The trouble with the world today is that a lot of people haven't got enough curiosity to start their thinking."

Commenting upon the scriptural account of how the crowds said that Jesus had gone to eat with a sinner, the evangelist declared: "I'd just as soon eat dinner with a sinner as with a saint. Sometimes I'd much rather. My experience is that when some saint—like a millionaire saint I met in Chicago—take me out to dinner, they give me about a thirty-cent lunch, while a sinner will give me a real feed."

Sunday at 11 o'clock Mr. Holcomb will preach on "Radiating the Message." At 3 p. m. there will be a great combination service, with the women occupying the lower floor, the men in the first gallery, and young people in their own balcony.

The subject will be, "Woman, Good, Bad and Indifferent." The subject for the Sunday evening service, at 7:30 will be, "Was David a Saint or a Sinner?"

There will be no services Saturday in connection with the revival except the noon meeting at the Peachtree Arcade.

W. W. BURT IS DEAD Funeral Services Will Be at 3:30 O'Clock Today.

The body of W. W. Burt, age 44, who died at the residence in Montgomery, Ala., was brought to Atlanta Friday morning and taken to the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, where funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Willis Garrison will officiate. Interment in West View.

Besides his wife, Mr. Burt is survived by two sisters, Mrs. J. E. Brantley, of Savannah, and Mrs. Joseph Redwine, of Chicago, Ill., and three brothers, Mr. L. W. Burt, of St. Simons Island; C. P. Burt, of Galveston, Texas, and Jack Burt, of Valparaiso, Ind.

FATE OF STIGALL IN JURY'S HANDS

ing in his own defense. He declared that the encounter with Hames, Kirk and Stanton had grown out of a desire for revenge on the part of the "bunko gang" as a result of his activity against vice.

"Shot to Protect Life."

Stigall declared that he shot to protect his life, and that the three men "rushed" him. "If I shot Hames in the back I don't know it," Stigall declared. "I don't see how he could have turned so quick—I was shooting as fast as I could."

The accused officer told in detail of threats against his life, declaring that he had been "bounced" by the three men until he was forced to act. "I went to them like a man," he said. "God save me from what a man can do."

Stigall just couldn't stand the "gaff," he knew that Hames was acquainted with his "crooked" dealings and he feared that he would be discovered. When he learned this he swore that he was "going to burn powder if he caught him."

Stigall declared that Hames was going to kill him. He had a right to place suspicion on any more that Hames might make. Stigall's life was in danger and he did just what any other man with common sense would have done—shot in self-defense.

"Threats Were Made."

"Threats had been issued against Stigall's life time and again, and he sought out Hames in the full light of day to settle with him. He ascertained why he was trying to 'get him.' That's why Stigall met the three men, Hames, Stanton and Kirk on the corner of Courtland and Houston streets."

"Must a man wait until weapons have been drawn upon him before protecting himself? Here these three men were threatening, menacing and advancing upon him. What was there to do but draw his revolver and shoot in protection of his own life?"

"My friend, Mr. Stephens, has talked about widows and children. It's all right to do this. But let us think of the widow and children that might have been if Stigall hadn't acted in self-defense."

"Sought Affidavits."

"Stigall had never met the man in his life, yet Hames got up in this court and swore that he wouldn't believe Stigall on oath. And why were these men going around trying to get affidavits against Stigall? Stanton lies when he says he wasn't after Stigall. Hames, Kirk and Stanton went to live after him in an effort to get something against Stigall. 'Can't you make an affidavit against Stigall?' was their question. 'Hans' he arrested you and don't you want to get revenge?"

"Stigall would never have gone to see Hames on the day of the shooting if he had not known that he had threatened his life and that time when word had been spread to him that Hames had said: 'I'll kill the son of a bitch.'"

"Gentlemen, Stigall shot because he just like you or I, believed in self-defense."

Mr. Branch concluded his argument at 5:55 o'clock, speaking 67 minutes.

The courtroom was crowded to capacity throughout the day and despite the crowd perfect order was maintained.

Shows Signs of Ordeal.

Stigall Friday began to show signs of the trying ordeal which he is undergoing. The smile that had been on his lips the first day and even the second and third, had disappeared as he walked back toward his cell in the Fulton tower Friday evening.

Mrs. Stigall has been by his side through every hour of court. Mrs. Hames, with relatives, seated directly back of the solicitor, listened intently to the testimony and arguments of state and defense Friday.

Stigall took the stand at 9:30 o'clock. He appeared calm and delivered his testimony in a direct and coherent manner.

He said that he had joined the police force May 13, 1913, and worked for several years as a uniformed officer. Police officials later transferred him to the plainclothes squad to enforce prohibition laws, he said.

This is known as the "vice squad." "The old bunko crowd was after me," Stigall declared. "I have even seen one of them come into court and testify that he wouldn't believe me on oath. He was a negro living in the Negro section and is in the changing now."

"After that nearly every place I went to I would hear about Hames and Kirk talking about framing me and getting my job. Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Beall told me. There were lots of people who brought these threats to me."

"I went out with Mr. Roper on the day of the shooting. I left him a few minutes after we left police station and went down Ivy street toward Houston street. On Ivy street Mr. Wallace overtook me and asked me if I wanted to ride with him. I got in. At the corner of Ellis and Courtland streets I saw Hames and I told Wallace that there was a man I wanted to talk to."

"Tipping Blind Tigers."

"I said, 'Hames, I want to talk to you. I've heard about you being employed to frame me.' I told him that I wanted him to quit interfering in my business and leave me alone. Hames had been tipping off blind tigers and when my partner and I would get to these places they would be closed."

"Kirk then came up and cursed me. He called me a yellow-livered coward and shouted: 'We're got you at last.' I told Kirk that I had never done him any wrong and he cursed me again, saying that he had plenty of whisky at his home and he would like to see me try and get it. He told me that he had a good shotgun in his house, too."

"I told him that I wouldn't be afraid to raid his house. Hames spoke up and said that he would get me right then. Hames reached his hand under his coat and Stanton reached back to his hip as if to draw a gun. They rushed at me and I drew my pistol and began firing."

"If I shot Hames in the back I don't know it. I don't see how he could have turned so quick for I was shooting as fast as I could. After the shooting was over I told Wallace to drive to police station and I reported what I had done."

"Gentlemen of the jury, I shot to protect my life—I didn't know what else to do."

Stigall left the stand and resumed his former seat near his wife at the table. He sat with his head bowed for fully 15 minutes after he reached his seat. Mrs. Stigall patted him on the arm, watching him intently until he raised his head.

Glover On Stand.

The afternoon session opened with examining of witnesses. Officer R. Glover was the first called to the stand under oath. He testified that he had heard a conversation between Stigall and Ernest Stanton the morning of the day of the shooting and that he had seen Stigall with a revolver in his hand.

Stanton assured Stigall, Officer Glover testified, that he had not been trying to "frame" him. Stigall told him that if he caught "those fellows (Hames and Kirk) trying to get false affidavits there would be trouble," Officer Glover stated.

R. Hollingsworth was next called to the witness chair. He was asked by Solicitor Boykin how long he had known Willie Hogan. He answered that he had known her for 15 years. He stated that he would not believe her under oath.

Mrs. T. N. Bond was called to the stand to testify relative to the character of A. A. Walker, witness for the defense who had said that he was an eye-witness to the shooting. Mrs. Bond stated that she would not believe Mr. Walker on oath and that his general character was bad.

Stigall had once tried to kill her and that she had prosecuted him for assault and battery. She declared that she had lived in Walker's neighborhood for several years.

Tells of Alleged Attack.

Mr. Howard asked her how many people were engaged in the fight in which she testified Walker tried to kill her. She said three women and Walker. "Then you three women jumped on this poor old man?" Mr. Howard asked her. She answered that Walker had hit an old lady and that when they went to her aid he attacked them.

Officer E. D. Bell, a member of the police force for twelve years, was next called by the state. He was called to testify to the character of Mattie Lester, who testified during the first part of the trial that Kirk had come to her for an affidavit against Stigall. Officer Bell declared that he would not believe her on oath.

The defense then took the witness stand and asked him if he knew Kirk. He said that he did and that Kirk's character was bad and that he had established a questionable record while in the police department. Kirk had the reputation of being a drunkard, he said.

Lieutenant Chewing, of the plainclothes squad, was called next, but after a conference with Solicitor Boykin did not take the stand.

City Detective Whitley was then called. He was asked about the character of Willie Hogan, a witness introduced by the defense. He declared that she was generally "bad" and that he wouldn't believe her on oath.

Sturdivant Called.

Captain T. O. Sturdivant, of the detective department, was called to the stand.

"Are you acquainted with Willie Hogan?" Solicitor Boykin asked.

"Yes sir."

"Would you believe her on oath?" "No."

Judge Humphries, after Captain Sturdivant had retired from the stand, asked if there was "anything more for the state." Solicitor Boykin then asked that he be allowed five minutes for a conference. The time was granted, and the state announced "closed."

The defense then called in R. A. Johnson, day clerk for the Southern hotel. He testified that Kirk had come to his hotel about three months ago and left a bundle of shirts and a cap at the desk. Kirk told him, he said, that he had gotten the merchandise from a burned store which he had been assigned to guard.

Kirk said that the merchant wouldn't lose anything because the insurance company would pay for all damages, the witness declared.

Johnson testified that Kirk's general character was bad.

Testifies to Raid.

I. D. Cady, member of the city vice squad, was next called to the stand by the defense. He testified regarding the raid he had with Stigall, telling of the arrest of one man and seizure of a quart of whiskey. Officer Cady also testified that Kirk's character was "bad."

Detective Cooper, house detective for an Atlanta hotel, was called. He testified that he had discharged Kirk from his service about three years ago. He said that Kirk failed to carry out his duty as an officer, and he was forced to discharge him.

Attorney Howard then announced that the defense was prepared to close.

A few minutes after the defense announced its willingness to rest, Solicitor Boykin asked that he be allowed to bring Captain Sturdivant back to the stand to identify a document. The paper was a record of arrests and convictions made by Stigall. During the trial evidence was introduced relative to a liquor raid in which Stigall had taken into custody several persons. The solicitor sought to show that D. W. Tatum had been the only person arrested in this raid.

Record of Cases.

Captain Sturdivant was then questioned by Mr. Howard regarding the document.

"What is this record," Mr. Howard asked.

"It is a record of the cases made by Stigall."

"This record shows that there were 1,079 cases made by Stigall against disorderly women and bootleggers during the time of one year and seven months," Mr. Howard declared. "Is this true, Captain?"

"Yes sir, it is, but I have four officers who have made 908 cases within the last three months."

This last statement was ruled out by Judge Humphries.

The defense and state then announced that they had closed.

Judge Humphries then called a conference with the counsel to determine the time desired for arguing the case. It was decided that Assistant Solicitor Stephens would begin the case for the state. He was allowed an hour. Mr. Branch followed him. Mr. Howard will open the argument Saturday morning and will be followed by Solicitor Boykin. These speeches will be one hour in length.

Alderman Called.

Following the conclusion of Stigall's statement in the morning W. B. Hartfield, alderman from the third ward, was called by the defense in an effort to prove that Hames and Kirk had threatened Stigall's life.

Answers to Attorney Howard's questioning failed to touch on threats.

E. E. Ginn, a member of the plainclothes squad, was called and he testified that he would not believe Kirk on oath.

Solicitor Boykin sprung a surprise when he called A. A. Walker, witness for the defense, and sought to impeach him. He was shown two court accusations and was asked if he was the A. A. Walker named in them.

"My name is A. A. Walker," he replied.

"Do you use any form of 'dope,'" the solicitor asked.

"No sir."

Several witnesses were called who testified that Walker's character was bad and that they would not believe him on oath.

Seek Depositions Of Mrs. Lytle And Edmondson

Holding a morning session only Friday, the legislative committee investigating the state department of agriculture adjourned at noon until 10 o'clock Monday morning, when the investigation will be continued.

Featuring the session was testimony of Charles E. Stewart, representative in the house from Atkinson county, and author of a resolution introduced during the last session which attacked the efficiency of the department and the administrative of its affairs by Commissioner J. J. Brown.

While Mr. Stewart, in blanket fashion, reiterated charges he had made on the floor of the house, he did not testify as to any specific facts. He asserted that he had written evidence in his possession, and the committee granted permission for him to submit this testimony to a member of the committee.

Other testimony he may give as to alleged specific incidents in conduct of the department was postponed until next week, when, he expects to have an attorney present.

Edmondson Employed

It developed later that the attorney retained by Mr. Stewart is Grover C. Edmondson, himself subpoenaed as a witness, and formerly connected with the Columbia Sentinel, a publication founded by the late J. S. Senter Thomas E. Watson, which has been active in criticisms of the department.

Fred T. Bridges, assistant commissioner, took the stand Friday and testified as to his personal activities in recent elections in Laurens, his home county, and as to an expense account of L. A. Glenn, an employee of the department, which had been criticized by preceding witnesses as excessive.

Mr. Bridges stated that he visited Laurens county for five days last fall, during the campaign, paying his own expenses, including railroad fare, but drawing his pay from the department during that period. He stated that he is a registered voter of Laurens county and that he went there to correct "false reports" which he understood were being circulated both against himself and Commissioner Brown. He stated he also transacted business for the department on the trip.

He testified that during his campaign for election, Parker S. New, now representative from Laurens, charged that the hotel bill of C. H. Kittrell, a member of the legislature, and also of the port and harbor commission, had been paid for the period of his 1921 service in the legislature by a state voucher approved by Mr. Brown.

New Denies Charge.

Representative New, who was on the stand Thursday, denied that he had made this charge. Mr. Bridges also said, on Thursday, that while he was in Laurens county answering these alleged false reports about himself and Mr. Brown, incidentally he did some work for Mr. Kittrell, who was a candidate for re-election. At that time Mr. Bridges was a grain expert for the department, having since been promoted to assistant commissioner.

In reference to the expense account of Mr. Glenn, under attack, Mr. Bridges testified that it was based on an average charge of ten cents per mile. He said that Mr. Glenn did not use a state-owned car on the trip, and he contended that the per mile rate was reasonable, when wear and tear and upkeep of the automobile were included.

Mr. Bridges said he took Mr. Glenn with the account to the warrant clerk of the governor's office, Walter Vance, for payment. A few days later he learned that the voucher which he held up and that Governor Hardwick summoned Commissioner Brown to his office and asked if the trip was not made in a state-owned car. The governor was informed, said Mr. Bridges, that a state automobile was not used. Then, the witness testified, he went to Walter Vance and told him if he did not immediately correct his statement to the governor that the trip was made in a state-owned automobile that he (Bridges) would go to the governor and make the correction.

Stewart's Position.

During his testimony, Representative Stewart said that his efforts during the recent session to secure investigation of the department were caused by reports brought to his attention by various citizens. He gave it as his opinion that there were too many oil and fertilizer inspectors and that they were not wisely assigned to counties on a basis of size and population.

Before adjourning, the committee assigned Representative Howard, one of its members; Sam Olive, Commissioner Brown's attorney, and the committee stenographer to go to Thomson to take a deposition from Mrs. Alice Louise Lytle, and to Savannah to take the testimony of Grover C. Edmondson, both of whom have been connected with the Columbia Sentinel. This action was taken after Attorney General George M. Napier had ruled, in response to an inquiry from the committee, that its powers were not extended as those of a superior court conducting a civil suit.

Manners!

Good manners are just as much a necessity in business as in social life. After all is said and done, pleasing manners are the mark of selfishness and a high regard for the rights and privileges of others.

We believe you'll agree with us when we say our salespeople are well bred. They are serene and courteous in emergencies, painstaking, kind and patient at all times.

You receive the same courteous treatment at our store as you expect in the most cultured home.

This makes it impossible for the committee to compel the attendance of witnesses from outside Fulton county, but allows it to send and take their depositions, with power of indicting for contempt of court if they fail to answer.

Mr. Olive, attorney for Commissioner Brown, stated that the defense was "extremely anxious" to secure Mr. Edmondson's testimony, as reports had come to him that Mr. Brown was being accused of keeping the witness in Savannah in order to prevent him testifying. Mr. Edmondson is reported as ill in a Savannah hospital.

Efforts to Fail.

An effort by Sam Olive, attorney for Mr. Brown, to make Mr. Stewart disclose what was in the papers he held in his hand when, on the floor of the house, he declared "I hold in my hand evidence to prove that J. J. Brown is a liar, a thief and a perjurer," failed on Saturday. Mr. Stewart replied that he was then speaking on the floor of the house, under a point of personal privilege. He stated, however, that these papers were in the keeping of his attorney, Grover C. Edmondson, and that it would be brought out during the investigation.

It was at this point that it was decided to await the coming of Mr. Edmondson, next week, before proceeding with the last testimony of Mr. Stewart.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES FILED BY HUSBAND DENIED BY COURT

Legally, it is all right for a man to maintain friendly relations with another man's wife, provided there is no proven attempt to interfere with the marital relations of husband and wife, according to a ruling of the Georgia court of appeals on Friday. This decision upholds Judge R. C. Bell, of the Decatur superior court, in a case brought by M. L. Martin, against L. Ball, seeking damages for alienation of affections. Judge Bell is now a member of the court of appeals, therefore was disqualified to pass upon this case.

"Where the only evidence is that the man and woman were seen together on various occasions when the husband was not present, a claim for damages is not set up," says the decision.

"Although such acts may be distasteful to the husband and contrary to the ethics of society respecting conduct toward a married woman in connection, they are insufficient to establish any violation of the purely legal rights of the husband," it says further.

School of Science Will Open at Tech Next Monday Night

Registration for the evening school of science at Georgia School of Technology will begin Monday night, it was announced Friday, and offers a broader course of study and greater opportunities to young men than ever before, schools officials state.

The entire equipment of Georgia Tech, representing approximately $1,000,000, has been placed at the disposal of students of the night school of science and plan for the 1923-24 year have been arranged to offer maximum service for all students.

Courses have been arranged so that students with only a high school education may enroll.

The new courses added to the curriculum for this year included armature winding, electrical wiring, blue print reading, chemistry, combustion of fuels, English, Spanish, foreman training, machine design, testing power plant equipment, valve setting, woodworking, heating and ventilating, highway engineering, structural steel design and concrete design.

Miss Bartholomew Will Give Series Of Organ Recitals

Miss Ella Bartholomew, organist at Westminster Presbyterian church, will give the first of a series of six organ recitals Tuesday evening, at 8:15 o'clock. Harry R. Bates, baritone soloist from the First Presbyterian church, will assist Miss Bartholomew.

The public is invited to this and the five following recitals, dates of which will be announced later.

In High's Store for Girls

Cinderella Frocks Get New Prices

Cuter frocks than Cinderellas for little girls—at the prices which Cinderellas are marked, we've never seen. They aren't made, that's why. For Cinderellas are made of good gingshams and they have the dainty little hand touches that make little girls' dresses so sweet. These have new prices for a clearance:

$3.50 and $3.98
Frocks for $2.79
$1.98 to $2.98
Frocks for $1.89

They're of good quality gingham, chambrays and poplins—of course the dresses at the higher prices have better quality materials and more elaborate trimming. Most of them are in pantee styles with hand smocking, embroidered appliques, cross stitching and hand embroidery to make them adorable. Mothers couldn't find sweeter frocks for kindergarten misses or first-graders—sizes from 2 to 6 years.

Girls Can Laugh at the First Cool Days in These Pretty WoolDresses, $5.98

Pretty? Indeed they are! There are some exceedingly attractive little frocks in this assortment. Take this middy frock, for instance, with the pleated skirt of black and white check velours and the middy-like blouse prettily hand embroidered in colored floss! And there are so many others—dresses of all-wool crepe with velvet bands, all-wool French serge, all-wool Jersey hand-embroidered and good-looking tailored styles of tweed. Why, any girl between the ages of 6 to 14 can easily find a dress to suit her fancy among these at $5.98.

THE COTTON YIELD.

The boll weevil is in South Carolina's cotton belt just as menacing an extent, without control, as it is in Georgia. The only difference is that the South Carolina invasion took place two or three years after the Georgia invasion. The boll weevil infestation was more severe in South Carolina in 1923 than in 1922; and yet the illuminating fact has developed that South Carolina is making far more cotton this year than last.

The western section of South Carolina was particularly hard hit in 1921, and in 1922. This year's "comeback" is more or less sensational as well as gratifying—gratifying particularly if the farmers of that state do not make the mistake that many of the cotton farmers in south Georgia made this year, and plow up the whole face of the earth next year and plant to cotton in direct violation of the rules of reason so plainly laid down for growing cotton successfully under weevil conditions.

The People's National Bank of Rock Hill, S. C., has carefully prepared estimates of this year's cotton production in the western section of that state, as shown below in parallel column to the exact yield of 1922:

	Yield in	Est. Yield
	1922	1923
Abbeville	9,000	12,000
Aiken	14,500	24,000
Allendale	6,500	8,000
Anderson	40,000	41,000
Bamberg	6,000	12,600
Barnwell	8,700	15,000
Edgefield	6,000	8,500
Greenville	15,000	31,000
Hampton	5,000	10,000
Laurens	19,000	21,000
Lexington	6,500	12,000
McCormick	2,000	3,500
Saluda	6,000	7,000
Spartanburg	56,500	58,000
Total	273,400	305,800

The estimated increase in yield for 1923 is 32,400 bales over 1922, while the entire state is estimated to produce 688,300 against 530,000 for 1922, a gain of 150,300 bales, which is a remarkable one.

The fact is, while South Carolina's boll weevil crisis followed that of Georgia, farmers of that state began to apply "the rules of reason" as promulgated by The Constitution in 1922 vigorously and intelligently, and the result speaks for itself.

The series of articles published by James A. Holloman, associate editor of The Constitution, in 1922, following a close study of boll weevil control in the southwest, inaugurated a general movement in the South Atlantic states for a systematic fight on the weevil based on three primary rules that he then laid down, as follows:

- 1st—Intensive and continuous cultivation of from five to ten acres to the plow, the surplus acreage to be applied to food and feed and other cash commodity crops.
- 2nd—Better preparation of seed beds, perfect drainage, segregation from stumpy and woodland conditions, better fertilization, more progressive farming.
- 3rd—The intelligent use of calcium arsenate poisoning, and the advance preparations for the poison control so that no delays or sacrifices might become necessary.

While every cotton state east of the Mississippi took keenly to The Constitution's proven program, and the reaction from a most distressing depression among cotton farmers was almost phenomenal, the fact is unmistakable that South Carolina in particular rallied to the new but necessary conditions with a spirit that was strikingly alert, and the Constitution series was published in book form by enterprising interests in that state and further distributed by the tens of thousands of copies.

The reaction from a boll weevil panic in that state has been quick and heartening.

The great problem now is to prevent the lure of increased acreage another year.

The intensive system of cultivation is just as essential at one time as another, and failure will generally follow where this rule is not strictly adhered to at all times.

In some sections of south Georgia, where cotton farmers almost mastered the weevil in 1922, the operations of 1923 have been almost a complete failure, and the underlying reason is the disposition to stretch the immutable rule of restricted acreage to the plow. The fact is with larger acreages to the plow the excessive rains of the summer put the weevil beyond the control of the facilities at hand.

In many sections of Georgia, notably in north central, east and west Georgia, the cotton crop is generally good, but in practically every case it is a fact that the farmer who has made cotton profitably this year, even at the ruling prices, has adhered strictly to the established program for growing cotton in a weevil-infested territory.

"SNAP BEAN FARM."

As the years roll by the memory of Joel Chandler Harris becomes more permanently enshrined in the hearts of the people of Georgia. The paths he trod and the spots he loved take on an embracing sacredness. Small wonder then that the Uncle Remus Memorial association will grasp the opportunity of buying "Snap Bean Farm" and thus make public property of the whole ground and estate where the Wren's Nest is located.

And the medium that has been sought to make Snap Bean Farm one great southern shrine along with the Wren's Nest will be the sale of roses on the streets of Atlanta on Monday, September 24. In itself the method of raising the fund necessary for the purchase of Snap Bean Farm is beautiful and expresses the sentiment of the immortal genius who made it famous.

Every true lover of the south will gladly contribute to make the property a shrine where, in future years, pilgrims from all parts of the world will come to pay homage to the creator of the Uncle Remus stories.

To preserve the garden, to keep in repair the house where the master lived as a place to be pointed to with pride, that is the aim of the Uncle Remus Memorial association—an aim worthy of support, for in this manner the sons have honored the memory of the fathers whose patriotism and valor built a great nation.

THE WORLD REMEMBERS.

The title of the last book we have had from the pen of Rev. James Wideman Lee—so long known and loved in Atlanta—is "The Geography of Genius." In that notable volume the author shows that the temples the traveler sees in historic countries cannot be compared with the cabins of the great men whose lives and whose genius gave light to their lowly habitations—the village-homes where they dwelt and toiled, and left undying memories.

That is the meaning of "The Geography of Genius"—the temples are great; but who lived in the towns?

Every little while, throughout the world, there are newspaper stories of the threatened demolition of the landmarks of the great; but invariably there comes the universal protest of Appreciation, and the loved memorials are spared to us, as may be the case with the home where Dickens lived and wrote the stories that keep his name secure as Shakespeare's.

The world forgets, and yet—the world remembers! Big and brilliant with business; given to science and wonderful invention, it still keeps in its great heart a kindly corner for the gentler things—the heartside stories of its life and love.

And so, the poets, and the historians of the very life it lives from day to day, will dwell forever in its memory.

Explaining Things.

William Sommers writes, in the Independence Examiner:
"Some people seem to think that newspapers take extra trouble in hunting up malicious stories and printing them. It probably has never occurred to them that the newspaper is not the business of printing malicious items and maintains a force of people to hunt out for things which are not true and which may do an injustice in order to keep from printing anything unfair. Running a newspaper is no such finding things to print as knowing what not to print."

FAIR SKIES PREDICTED

Cooler Weather Is Forecast For Atlanta Saturday.

Fair, cooler weather was predicted for Atlanta today by Forecaster C. E. von Hermon. Atlanta temperatures were slightly higher during the last 24 hours, reaching a maximum of 86. Minimum temperature was 64. Rain probability was 0.04 inches.

"Indications are that there will be no more rain this week end," said the forecaster. "We may not expect any other severe time to the temperatures, however, in several days. In fact there is nothing indicative of another real cool change in sight, although summer weather is here."

"Showers were prevalent in certain sections of the cotton belt, especially in Texas, Alabama, and the central and southern portions of Georgia. A new disturbance over Montana seems to be moving eastward across the lakes and will cause somewhat cooler weather at the beginning of next week."

WESLEYAN COLLEGE TO HAVE GREAT YEAR

Macon, Ga., September 21.—With accommodations for approximately 900 students, Wesleyan College, which opened its fall semester a week ago, looks forward to the greatest year in its history, officers of the institution declared today in announcing that plans for a new plant for the college are being pushed.

Officials at Wesleyan expect soon to begin work on the new site selected for the college in the outskirts of Macon. Changes and additions in the teaching personnel were announced at the college. Dr. D. B. Bassett, of the Florida State School for women, has been elected to the new chair of philosophy and psychology. Dr. Julia Sarauw becomes head of the French department while Miss Wolf is on leave of absence for a year. Dr. Bertha Reuter has been elected an associated professor in the department of history and economics, and Misses Sears, Oliphant and Leston, of the class of 1925, are to be assistants in the departments of English and physics.

HEALTH KINDERGARTEN TO MEET AT CHAMBER

The free kindergarten school of health under the direction of Robert Bryan Harrison will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce building. Six assistants are provided to assist in instructing the children in health exercises and corrective dancing. Children, parents and teachers are invited to attend the lectures and to participate in the exercises.

Chapter VII.—The Problem of Germany.
BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

Dr. Rudolph Helfferding is the new finance minister of the republic of Germany. Young, able and active he has just announced himself in favor of a new currency based on gold.

"Inflation must be stopped or Germany is doomed," said Dr. Helfferding in reply to a question of mine. "Not only is it destroying our cultural life by taking all the material wealth of the nation, but it is causing the awful concentration of wealth of Germany into fewer and fewer hands. This is bad for Germany. It is bad for international trade and it is bad for the world. It must be stopped." Let us see the problem Helfferding faces.

Germany in 1914 was a world leader in international trade, with an area about the size of France she had a population exceeding that of France by about 25,000,000. Her currency, like that of England, was sound. Her government receipts and expenditures balanced; 82 per cent of her receipts came from direct taxes as against 20 per cent of direct taxes in France. Her international exchange moved within the gold standard.

At this time she had outstanding $655,000,000 in bank notes and deposits, and $260,000,000 in gold reserve. This is to say that every dollar of bank notes and deposits outstanding she had 40 per cent of gold to pay with. During the war she increased her bank notes and deposits to $3,000,000,000 while the gold reserve only increased to $750,000,000. To put it in another way, her bank notes and deposits increased during the war 15.7 times while the gold reserve increased only 2.1 times. For every dollar of bank notes and deposits outstanding at the end of 1918 Germany had 6.3 of gold to pay with. What happened? The same thing as in France and Great Britain. We need not repeat the experience in detail except to say that prices went steadily up and the purchasing power of her money went steadily down. If we figure wholesale prices in Germany in July 1914 at 100 we find them at the close of the war at 217. That is to say it took $217 of the close of the war to purchase what $100 would at the beginning. Still she inflated her currency less during the war than any of the other great belligerents.

At outbreak of the war the public debt of Germany was $17,000 per capita—the lowest in Europe. Its annual interest charges were only 62 cents per capita. During the war as in France taxes were not greatly increased. Still her war taxes per capita per annum were $3.72 as against 12 cents for the United States. She had 500,000,000 worth of her bonds to her own people. She made 30,000,000 individual sales. The total amount of bonds was worth exactly $405,000,000. From the dawn of barbed shops; That it isn't The original cost. It's the upkeep."

Explaining Things.
William Sommers writes, in the Independence Examiner:
"Some people seem to think that newspapers take extra trouble in hunting up malicious stories and printing them. ## UNHAPPY THOUGHTS.

Here are some unhappy thoughts contributed to this column by a municipal sanitary engineer who has had much experience.

"No matter how good the toilet fixtures may be in design and quality and how efficient in operation, the interior of the basin and trap should be cleaned with a long handled brush at least once a week. With ordinary care no punice or other scouring powder is needed and no injury is done to the glass."

"The wash bowl should be thoroughly cleaned with a wash cloth for this purpose, immediately after each use. It is a too common practice to life the plug and walk away, with the result that a film or ridge of dirt is left in the trap. This is removed if allowed to dry. When such a film or ridge must be removed a stiff nail brush with soap and water is better than scouring. Scouring with gritty powders is likely to roughen the glass and afford opportunities for dirt to accumulate."

"The same rules apply to the bath tub, in which a 'dead mark' of combined soap, dirt and mineral salts is frequently left. The faucet is turned on, the water is run out, and the tub is flushed with hot water (not hot water) to the next corner, who, if conscientiously inclined, must clean the tub twice instead of once."

"Waste pipes can be kept clean by an occasional flushing with hot water (not hot water) to the next corner, who, if conscientiously inclined, must clean the tub twice instead of once."

"Needless to say, the necessity for constant bathroom ventilation should be kept in mind. A window kept open an inch at the top will work wonders. A bathroom floor should be of impervious material. Apart from the ideal tile floor this includes many types of tile, linoleum and similar coverings. Woolen or cotton rugs laid thereon should be small and frequently shaken or vacuum cleaned. The walls are best painted in oil; if papered the entire surface should be varnished. Fancy mouldings, liable to harbor dust, should be avoided."

"A warning against encasing or including bathroom fixtures in wood or other coverings would have been necessary for an earlier generation. Where the fixtures are so inclosed, the inclosures should be torn down, leaving everything accessible. Supply and discharge pipes should also be fully exposed to avoid 'traps' for water bugs and other vermin."

All of these suggestions are good, it seems to me, but I should like to see the commission the sanitary engineer gives in the last paragraph a special order to tear out the old bath tub, and send it to the cellar, to be put anybody or everybody else has used."

GEORGE DUMONT TUESDAY IS FINAL FOR CRACKERS

Crackers Play Final Game at Poncey Park Today

Richard Niehaus Will Work In Game Against Nashville; Play Final Game in Memphis

Locals Have Chance for Third Place—Only One Game Will Be Played Today, Starting Promptly at 3 O'Clock.

BY HENRY ALLEN.

Local fans will have the opportunity of witnessing the final game of the Crackers on home grounds for this season, when they play the Nashville Vols at Poncey de Leon today starting promptly at 3 o'clock. The team will leave immediately after the game for Memphis, where they will play the closing game of the 1923 season Sunday afternoon.

The team at present is in the midst of a fight for a place in the local fourth place even if they should lose Sunday. But a win today and Sunday with Memphis losing both games will send the locals scurrying in the third place position.

Richard Niehaus, a southpaw of no little ability and who has been jinx to the Vols all season, will probably be in the rifle pit for the locals this afternoon. Who will oppose Dick has not been announced by Jimmy Hamilton, but at any rate the locals are bound to have a stiff fight on their hands.

Karr May Pitch.

This will leave only the game Sunday with Memphis to be played. Benny Karr has been called home on account of the illness of his wife, but it is hoped that he will be able to join the club in Memphis Sunday.

Ruth Voted Most Valuable Player in American League

Is Unanimously Elected To Position by Committee of Eight Baseball Writers in League.

Chicago, September 21.—George Herman "Babe" Ruth, of the New York Americans, pennant winners of the American league for 1923, today was declared to be the most valuable player to his team and was awarded the American league trophy for the season, having received the highest possible number of points, and setting a record that can never be beaten.

Ruth was the unanimous choice of the committee appointed to select the American league player who has been of greatest service to his team during the championship season, registering first place on every ballot one from each of the eight cities in the circuit—for a total of 64 counts.

Announcement of the award was made by President Ban Johnson, of the league.

How complete was the comeback staged by the Yankee slugger this year can be seen from the fact that in the 1922 trophy contest, which was won by George Sisler, of the St. Louis Browns, with 59 points, Ruth was not mentioned among the eight best players.

Eddie Collins, of the Chicago White Sox, stood second to Ruth in this year's contest, with 37 points. He was named as the best player on the Chicago team by all eight of the committees. Last season Collins was fifth with 18 points. Harry Heilmann, of Detroit, is rated third and Gerber, of St. Louis, is tied with Joe Sewell, of Cleveland for fourth, each having 20 points.

Ruth's name will be inscribed on the 1923 tablet of the $100,000 monument to be erected in East Potomac Park, Washington, and presented to the United States government by the American league as a memorial to the championship season, registering first place on every ballot one from each of the eight cities in the circuit—for a total of 64 counts.

V. M. I. OPENS SEASON TODAY

Lexington, Va., September 21.—The 1923 football season in the south will be opened here tomorrow when the marine corps eleven from Quantico will clash with the Virginia Military Institute squad. Both teams were put through light practice today, the marines using Alumni field and the cadets the parade grounds. No chance of injury to the players was taken by the coaches of each team, the day's workout being confined principally to signal drills. Although the Devil-dogs will go into tomorrow's game with an advantage in weight and experience, Virginia Military Institute followers are counting on the speed of the Flying Squadron to even the odds.

Davidson Meets Elan. Davidson, N. C., September 21.—The 1923 football season in North Carolina will open here tomorrow when Elan college meets Davidson college on the latter's gridiron.

That first place counted eight points, second place seven points, etc. Twenty-two players figure in the voting for the trophy this year, the official count of which follows: George H. Ruth, cf., New York, 64; Edward T. Collins, 2b., Chicago, 37; Harry E. Heilmann, cf., Detroit, 31; Walter Gerber, ss., St. Louis, 20; Joseph Sewell, ss., Cleveland, 20; C. D. Jamieson, cf., Cleveland, 19; J. L. Bassler, cf., Detroit, 17; C. E. Gallaway, ss., Philadelphia, 13; George E. Uhle, cf., Cleveland, 13; George Burns, 1b., Boston, 8; Howard Elmer, p., Boston, 7; Harold Ruel, c., Washington, 7; Rogers Peckinpaugh, ss., Washington, 6; Urban Shocker, p., St. Louis, 5; J. I. Judge, 1b., Washington, 4; M. J. McManus, 2b., St. Louis, 4; Kenneth Williams, cf., St. Louis, 3; R. R. Harris, 2b., Washington, 3; Joseph Harris, cf., Boston, 3; J. J. Hauser, 1b., Philadelphia, 1; Walter Johnson, p., Washington, 1; Ralph Perkins, 1b., Philadelphia, 1.

Ruth was born in Baltimore, Md., February 7, 1894, and started his baseball career as a member of St. Mary's industrial school team in 1913. The following year he went to Baltimore where he played one season. He became a member of the Boston Red Sox in 1915. After five seasons with Boston, Ruth was purchased by the New York club in 1920. Two years ago Ruth established a record for home runs for a season, cracking out 59. He broke into the American league as a pitcher, but it was soon discovered his great hitting powers would bring out his best qualities and he was shifted to the outfield.

Ruth's work at the plate this season has thrown a fear into most of the pitchers and as a result the big slugger has received 156 bases on balls. He is leading the league in home runs, having gathered 37, according to unofficial averages, which include games of September 20, which the big fellow has tapped out 154 hits, which, besides his home runs, include 33 doubles and 11 triples, while his batting average is only one point behind Harry Heilmann, of Detroit, who is leading the league. At one time Ruth was topping the league. Ruth is far in front in total bases with 336 and is heading the league as a run getter, having registered 134 times.

Title Bout Attracting Nation-Wide Attention

London Daily Mail Asks That Picture of Macon Youngster Be Forwarded Immediately.

Proof that the Stribling-McTigue lightweight championship tilt in Columbus, Ga., October 4, is attracting not only nation-wide but world-wide notice is contained in a cablegram received by promoters of the show from the London Daily Mail, requesting photographs of the Macon challenger.

Cigane hails from Ireland, and in Europe is fully as well known as he is in the United States. He won his title in Ireland a few months ago, when he defeated the notorious Battling Siki, who now is in the United States looking for lucrative matches, including a return engagement with the rest of the Macon family. McTigue will have nothing left but sweet memories of a better day, when the bout in Columbus is over.

In Strict Training. The Macon light-heavyweight is in strict training for the fight. He is leaving Ireland under the right now he is devoting his attention to speed and perfection of a left jab that will keep the Irishman off his feet. Later he will concentrate on his right fist, having delayed work on his knock-out punch because of the danger of hurting the elbow that was broken in the fight with Happy Howard.

His physicians say that the arm has completely healed, but the Stribling ringers are taking no chances of a second injury.

The boy has had two fights since returning to the ring, one with Saul or Martin in Miami, and another with Jimmy Conway in Rome, Ga. Both were test bouts, and he emerged from them in a highly satisfactory condition.

"B" is convinced that "son" is ripe for a championship crack, that his arm will be as strong as ever when he climbs into the ring on October 4, the afternoon of October 4, and that he will be the next world's champion. Confidence that is amazing for a lad of Stribling's age and reputation for saying little was expressed, while he was in Atlanta a few days ago. The challenger said: "I have never made a habit of talking of my opponent, and I never permit myself to under-rate them. But you know, somehow, I have a feeling that I will be a world's champion when I arise from my downy couch this morning after."

That is the feeling of Stribling for the feeling that exists in the Stribling camp.

Mrs. Stribling, his mother, has expressed the hope that her boy will give Mike the whipping of his life. "I have trained W. L. differently than ever before," said Mr. Stribling. "I am showing him the way to grind, and I am putting him on the aggressive, so that when he enters the ring with the title at stake, he will know that he has the right after his man all the time."

"There is but one way for us to win the crown, that is to force the fighting to keep on going. We will keep a good left hand playing in his face, chopping him down steadily until he is ready for a terrific right-hand smash to the jaw or occiput. Then the throne will be ours."

So it is evident that Stribling will not lay back, and wait for McTigue to come to him, as is his usual system. The championship would mean thousands of dollars to him besides the honor that goes with it—and the Striblings this time mean to throw caution to the four winds, and go right out after the title.

Johnny Westmoreland again won the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tourney which was played over the course of the Brookhaven club during the last week. His score for the 36 holes was 149 after the handicap had been deducted. Athle Roberts was second with 156 and Bob Goodhart was third with 160.

HOMER SMITH MEETS LOHMAN

The American Legion, which has been offering a string of brilliant fights in recent weeks, will step forward with another big heavyweight attraction on October 2 at the Auditorium.

Announcement that Homer Smith, noted Michigan fighter, who stayed 10 rounds with Luis Firpo, the walling Bull of the Pampas, has been signed to meet Joe Lohman, of Toledo, here on that day, will be glad tidings to local fans.

Since Lohman put up a wonderful battle with Bob Roper at Spiller Bowl recently, fans here have been eager to see him again. His meeting with Roper brought out considerable interest, Lohman claiming that the captain hit him and otherwise roughed him up.

Homer Smith will need no introduction here, or elsewhere for a matter. His game exhibition against Luis Angel Firpo just before the latter's championship try, netted Homer a record of 10 wins and 10 losses.

Try as he might, Firpo could not put over the finishing wallop to Smith's jaw.

The legion plans to back up this bout with a good preliminary card.

GIANTS WIN DOUBLE-BILL. Pittsburgh, September 21.—The New York Giants strengthened their lead on first place by taking both games of a double-header today, beating the Philadelphia Phillies 4 to 0, and 8 to 1.

The Giants knocked both Meadows and Cooper out of the first game, and continued their heavy hitting in the second, sending Cooper to the showers.

Philadelphia's first game was a 1-0 win over the Pirates, and the second was a 2-1 win over the Braves.

The Crackers' Curve Ball Artist Leaves for Home; Nashville Loses Game 7 to 2

Crackers Fatten Batting Averages at the Expense of Hengehold, Young Volunteer Twirler—Play Again Today.

George Dumont, Atlanta pitcher of no-hit fame, won his last game as a Cracker Friday afternoon at Poncey de Leon over Nashville by a score of 7 to 2. George will leave Atlanta Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock for his home in Minneapolis, where he will spend the winter.

The game Friday was one of the best of the week, being a pitchers' battle for three innings then it resulted in free hitting contest for both clubs. It was a game that the fans like to witness once in a while, good hitting, good fielding, clever base running, and in fact good in every way.

George Dumont was pitted against Hengehold, a young southpaw employed by Jimmy Hamilton, and for a while it looked as if a real twirler's battle was on but in the fourth inning Atlanta secured three hits combined and pushed three runners across and the game was over.

Agape in the next inning Atlanta secured three runs on three hits and outside of those two innings Hengehold did not allow more than one hit per inning.

Allows Nine Hits. Dumont allowed nine hits, three of those triples and one a two-bagger, but the hits were widely scattered, only one per inning except in the eighth when two triples and a sacrifice fly netted one run. George had a curve ball working well, striking out five of the Nashville batters and not allowing a single man to reach first base by the free pass route.

Kiki Cuyler, who was recently voted the most valuable player in the Southern league did not appear in the Nashville lineup and it was learned during the game that Kiki had gone to Pittsburgh to finish the season as a member of the Pirates.

To further establish the fact that the game was one well worth witnessing, Atlanta scored only three runs and only three batters were left stranded on the bases, all of which speaks well for the pinch player and one other cracker, and the good infield work of the Atlanta team.

The Atlanta teams made two fast double plays and one other came to order but neither Clarke nor Moore covered up second base on a line drive by Hengehold, who was caught in his tracks.

Two Vol players were stopped in an attempted steal of the keystone bag. In the sixth inning a double play, Ring to Clarke to Niehaus killed a Vol chance to score. Another chance went to the winds in the seventh inning when Lebourveau, who had infield hit, went to second on Ring's error and was out when Burke doubled him in that after Berens had filed out.

The hitting after the afternoon was done by Moore, Guyon, Barber and Clarke of the Crackers and Lebourveau, Murphy, Perritt and Hengehold for the Vols. Moore secured a double and single in four attempts. Guyon secured two singles. Barber hit a three base swing that scored two runners ahead of him. Clarke hit two

Notre Dame shifts, working them almost to perfection, the variety was simply unapproachable. Coach Bean plans to use these two famous shifts alternately, and it speaks well for the coaching the team has received to see the precision with which the shifts are worked. Marist has employed the Tech shift for some time, but the shift fashioned after that used by the great western team is a recent addition to Marist's list of plays.

Lineup Announced. The first team lines up about as follows: Holland, center; Neil and Williams, Holland, center; Neil and Smith, tackles; Captain Taylor and Holliday, ends; Devitt, quarter; Dean and Spencer, halves, and either Van Brocklin or Player at full.

The tackles are both varsity men returned from last year's eleven. Taylor at end, is of course a last year's product. In the backfield, Dean and Van Brocklin are the old hands returning. Devitt, quarter, was the understudy of Bradley last year. Practically all of the remaining men graduated from last year's second team.

Van Houten, the little 118-pound half of last year's varsity, and Keeling, a varsity tackle, have entered college at Spring Hill this fall. Reports have it that Van Houten is calling signals for the varsity from a quarterback position, and Keeling is showing up well in the line. Several other ex-Marist stars are making a name for themselves on various freshman elevens around the country, coach says.

Marist has not been able to land a satisfactory game for the 25th, but will open the season on October 6 against Powder Springs.

Under the guidance of Coach John Bean and John Bradley, football has been booming out on the Marist campus. There are still close to forty men reporting in togs each day, and though many of them are little fellows and hardly capable of being considered for the first eleven, it shows that Marist is behind its team to a man.

The squad has held several scrimmages and these, with encounters with the dummies, have crippled several of the men rather seriously, enough to put one or two out for the season. Dickey has broken his nose, Lide sprained and then broke his wrist and Mathewson has injured his knee.

But the scrimmages were not stopped because of casualties, not by any means, for perhaps the stiffest play of the week was held Friday afternoon.

In order to give the scrubs a better chance, and perhaps simply because of his own game, Bradley ran quarter for the second team Friday. To have a man with the ability and reputation that John possesses called in for a team which the varsity had been in the habit of treating pretty much as they pleased, threw something of a scare into the best football ability on the Marist squad and the scrubs made it more than lively for the first string men.

But the varsity soon got a grip on itself and checked the advance of the scrubs before Coach Bean called a halt. When the first eleven took the field, it more theyavened what little ground its opponents had been able to gain. Using the Tech and

MARKSTON, BATTLER, SWEETESTER FOR AMATEUR CROWN

Francis Ouimet Eliminated Along With Robert Gardner In Semi-Finals of Tourney

Sweetester Has Easy Time With Gardner and Wins 8 and 7—Marston, Bobby's Conqueror, Finally Wins Out 3 and 2.

Flommoor, September 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—A Jess Sweetester, of New York, got a step nearer the goal today in his defense of the amateur golf championship by defeating Robert Gardner, of Chicago, twice holder of the title, 8 and 7, in the semi-final. The champion played one stroke better than perfect golf in the morning round, and was even with par for the eleven holes played on the second round, while Gardner slipped at times with various clubs, took 81 for the first round and was two over par when he lost at the twenty-ninth hole.

Max Marston, of Philadelphia, will be Sweetester's opponent in the final round as a result of his victory, 3 and 2, over Brand Ouimet, of Boston. While Marston did not shoot remarkable golf, taking 81 for the first round, and being only a trifle better on the second, Ouimet was off his game.

Play started under adverse conditions with the link soft from intermittent rains and a strong wind blowing from the northeast to the discomfort of both golfers and the gallery which was assembled by the shivery blast and lowering sky.

Driving into the teeth of the gale, Sweetester and Gardner each got only 200 yards on the 415-yard first hole, and with equal brasses Sweetester was short in three, taking six, while Gardner was barely on but got down a par 5 and was 1 up.

Sweetester was 10 yards short of the 212-yard second hole while Gardner pushed to a trap and was 12 feet short in two. Sweetester chipped to within 8 inches and squared the match when Gardner took two putts.

Ouimet and Marston halved the first hole in par six, both taking 3 in the face of the gale, to get on and were down in the par four.

Marston drove into the rough to the right of the green while Ouimet found the trap. Both were well over the pin, but Marston missed his second putt and Ouimet got the hole in a par 3, making the Bostonian one up.

Gardner missed a drive, and the 552-yard third and hardly had a good drive in two. Both were short in three and Gardner hooked his masher into a trap and lost. When Sweetester pitched dead, being 1 down.

Equal wind changes of 220 yards on the 342-yard fourth led only to trouble for both. Gardner over-approached to a trap and Sweetester fell short in a snail's pace. Gardner of the green. Gardner missed his first niblick and was 7 feet short in 4 while Sweetester was 8 feet short in 3 and holed in par 4 on the side hill green, going 2 up.

Sweetester drove 200 yards before the gale on the 417-yard fifth and Gardner was 30 feet short. Sweetester pitched 25 feet short of the flag while Bob was only 5 feet to the left of the cup. Gardner was short in three but holed it for a par, losing to Bob's birdie 3 and was 1 up.

Their drives landed 8 feet apart on the 417-yard sixth and Gardner, playing the odd, was 8 feet from the hole in 2 while Sweetester was a few inches closer. Bob holed his birdie 3, but the wind got Sweetester's ball and the match was square.

Sweetester Up Again. Gardner pitched 25 feet to the left of the cup on the 415-yard seventh while Sweetester dropped his ball eight feet short of the cup. Sweetester lipped the cup in two and Gardner missed a five-footer for a three, going one down.

Sweetester drove 200 yards against the wind at the 335-yard eighth, but Bob was 30 yards longer. Sweetester pitched within four feet of the pin, while Gardner was 30 feet short and Sweetester went two up with a birdie three.

They were both on the 357-yard ninth green in two, Sweetester playing from the rough but going only eight feet over the cup in two. Gardner was again 30 feet short, and they halved in par four for the first half since the match started, leaving Sweetester 2 up at the 10th.

Tenth Halved With Birdies. Having gone out in a par 36 and a 38, they both reached the 40-yard tenth green in two and halved in birdie 4. Gardner was 30 feet to the left of the flag from the eleventh tee, while Sweetester was 15 feet to the left on the 177-yard hole. Sweetester bobbled the cup in two while Gardner would have six feet short and lost, 4 to 3, going 3 down.

Sweetester was only 20 yards short of the hole on the 482-yard twelfth with two irons, while Gardner was 20 yards short. Both were five feet short on their approach, but Gardner missed his birdie while Gardner won, 4 and 5.

On the 115-yard thirteenth Gardner just cleared the trap. Sweetester dropped his ball a foot above the cup. Sweetester won with a birdie two and was three up.

Gardner Outdriven. Sweetester far outdrove Gardner on the 335-yard fourteenth. Gardner was 15 feet over in three, while Jess ran his third up to within three feet and fifth and Ouimet, with a superb run up to within an inch of the cup, holed his next and evened the match with a par 4.

Two strokes put them on the green for the sixteenth and each took two putts for a halve in par 4.

Marston Finds Trap. Marston hooked his drive on the seventeenth to a trap on the right of the fairway. He had a fair lie but his masher second landed at the bottom of the plateau on which the green lies.

Ouimet took only two to get on the far side of the green but it cost him three more to find the cup. Marston's third carried him over to the green and he took three more to sink his ball, which again put Ouimet one up.

Coming home on the eighteenth Ouimet's drive went out of bounds but he reached the edge of the green in three, while Marston was on at that figure. Marston took two more for a par 5 to Ouimet's 6, again squaring the match.

The card: Morning ..... 545 34 456—41—51 Marston in ..... 445 346 465—41—51 They were on the 335-yard 26th with an easy two, Ouimet being away. Two putts each and they halved the hole in par.

Marston slightly outdove Ouimet on the 387-yard 27th. Marston's second hit the flag pole and he bounded to the right. Ouimet went to the far side of the green and took three putts, making Marston one up.

A strong breeze withered Marston and Ouimet as they drove off the nineteenth tee for the start of their last round this afternoon and shortened their drives perceptibly.

Both landed on the green with their thirds. Ouimet took two putts for a par five and Marston took a six.

Marston drove to the right of the twentieth hole in the long grass, while Ouimet found the green. Marston made a pretty approach shot and holed his next for a par three, halving the hole with Ouimet.

The wind again shortened their drives on the twenty-first and both had a good lie. Their seconds were short. Ouimet landed on the edge with his third and made a beautiful sixty-yard putt not more than an inch past the cup. Marston, who was just short of the green, made a splendid run up, and they halved in five. Their drives on the 342-yard twenty-second were good and they both were on in two with Marston inside. Two putts each halved the hole in par fours.

Marston drove into the rough to the right of the fairway on the twenty-third. Ouimet's ball, while on the fairway, was on the bottom of a small ditch, and he had good second. Ouimet's rolled into a trap to the right of the green. Their thirds put them on the green where two putts each halved the hole in five, one over par.

Barely Misses Woods. Ouimet narrowly escaped the forest on the right of the twenty-fourth fairway, where he got in trouble on the morning round, landing just at the edge of the woods. He holed his next, only on the fairway. Ouimet played his second to the left and out on the fairway and was on in three.

Marston got a bad lie on the side of a bunker bordering the carpet for his second, but a pretty out put him on the green. He took two putts for a par four, as did Marston, halving the hole in five.

On the twenty-fifth, the 126-yard hole was on with the green. Ouimet, being inside. He was short with his first putt and Marston holed his third shot for a par three, making the match square.

After Ouimet had played a worried game for thirty holes and had finally squared his match with Marston with birdie fours on the twenty-third and thirtieth, the only two holes he played under par all day, he dropped the match on the shortest hole of the course by a five-foot putt for a birdie two after Marston had sunk a fifty foot one for his two.

The play on this short hole surrounded by trees and pits was the most dramatic witnessed during the day. Marston's tee shot was wild and would have carried to the bluff in two, but he carried it down hill from the tee, which it did not hit a boy scout who was trying to keep back the fifth hole, but it hit the flag pole and dropped back two feet from the cup and it appeared almost certain that Marston would lose.

On the twenty-sixth, the 126-yard hole was on with the green. Ouimet, being inside. He was short with his first putt and Marston holed his third shot for a par three, making the match square.

Injury to Neck May Keep Brilliant Halfback Out of Games Early in the Season—More Runs at Quarter.

BY JOHN STATION.

Scrimmage seems to be more of a habit than a novelty at Grant Field these days. Yesterday, Coach Alexander lined up Poole at center, McConnell and McIntyre at guards, Carpenter and Bowler at tackles, and Mays on the ends. In the backfield, he had Godwin, Barron, Nonesmasher, and Ivan Williams. The scrum, as usual, furnished the opposition.

Ivan Williams got into his first scrimmage yesterday, and threw a fit into the scrum line. They could not stop him. He bucked his way for four yards at will, and then he would retire from the game, yet it boldly, he possesses the speed, dash, and agility so essential to the modern halfback.

WELCOME FOR JACK PLANNED

Salt Lake City, September 21.—Salt Lake City is making plans to welcome home Jack Dempsey, who successfully defended his heavyweight crown against Luis Angel Firpo. Dempsey is expected to arrive tomorrow afternoon. The chamber of commerce will have charge of the program. Dempsey will be met at the train by members of the chamber of commerce and other representative business men of the city and state. He will be the guest of honor at a membership luncheon. Governor C. R. Mabey has been asked to speak.

LECTURES AT TIGER CAMP

BY EMMETT SIZEMORE.

Auburn, Ala., September 21.—(Special.)—The first special practice to be indulged in by the 1923 Auburn football team was the Tiger Camp. The camp was held at the Tiger Camp, where the team was to be drilled by Coach Alexander. The camp was held at the Tiger Camp, where the team was to be drilled by Coach Alexander.

Blackboard lectures are in store for the footballers as the season progresses. Plays and formations are gone over, usually, the day preceding their tryout on the field. The illustration board is often resorted to in ironing out defects in the execution of the string of formations that go to make up the plays.

After the quarter of coaches had administered a number of timely suggestions pertaining to the fall work, Coach Alexander, of Atlanta, and Jim Tappan, of Montgomery, former Tiger stars, spoke briefly to the team, laying special stress on the necessary efforts in preparation, essential to making up a winning combination for the tough schedule ahead.

Since Head Coach Steiner first called out the men who anticipate making a race for regular and substitute positions on the team, out of the twenty-five men have been named—about twice as many as the number of trophies last season. All year the coaches have been busy with the team, and the coaches figures that there are between forty and fifty men on the field under no uniform.

Atlanta Girl Is Eliminated From Canadian Tournament By Woman's National Champ

Miss Collett Will Meet Mrs. W. A. Gavin, of England, in Finals Today—Miss Stirling Is Defeated 3 and 2.

Mounbruno, September 21.—By defeating Miss Alex Stirling, 3 up and 2 to play in semi-finals of the Canadian ladies open championship, Miss Glenna Collett became America's representative in what will be an international final tomorrow. Mrs. W. A. Gavin, of England, will be her opponent, having eliminated the sole survivor, Mrs. Hope Gilson, of Hamilton, 2 and 1.

The match was played in disagreeable weather, but despite this a large crowd followed the play, the bigger gallery going with the Americans.

Miss Collett showed a vastly superior brand of golf to that displayed by the Atlanta girl. Miss Stirling seemed to lack her usual confidence with the result that most of her misses were on the green. Miss Collett, playing with an iron nerve, did marvelous things with the putter, making allowances for conceded putts.

The Cards: Miss Collett ..... 554 556 444—41 In ..... 340 454 4 Miss Stirling ..... 564 565 534—43 Out ..... 343 453 5

Miss Collett took the lead at the second hole, the first being halved. On the ninth Miss Stirling reached the green in two. Miss Collett was in the rough with her second, sinking a ten-foot putt after Miss Stirling had chipped short. The fourth was a winning putt, putting the cup with a long putt, but on the fifth the Providence girl advanced her advantage to three up, making a gallant putt, after over-running the pin.

On the sixth, despite a badly sliced drive, Miss Stirling reduced her opponent's lead. Miss Collett missed a half by inches. Her prowess with her putter won the seventh hole for the Providence girl. She sank a 20-footer for a four, Miss Stirling taking five.

Miss Stirling took the eighth with a three, Miss Collett narrowly missing a half. Miss Collett took two up. On the ninth Miss Stirling reached the green in two. ## NUT TRUST CASE IN SHORT RECESS

Norfolk, Va., September 21.—One more important witness will be examined Monday, and the plaintiff in the $3,625,000 damage suit of the Peanut Growers' association against a group of fifteen peanut cleaning and shelling concerns, thirteen of which are affiliated with the National Peanut Cleaners' and Shellers' association, then will rest its case. Announcement of this effect was made to Judge Groner by plaintiff counsel in federal court here today.

Upon adjournment this afternoon, court was recessed until Monday, when O. C. Lightner, of Chicago, owner and publisher of The Peanut Promoter, of Suffolk, a trade publication, and the last important witness for the growers, will be called. Mr. Lightner reached Norfolk tonight.

Judge Groner today impressed upon counsel the necessity of speeding up the proceedings, the fifth day of which has been completed with the plaintiff still presenting its case. J. Rives Worsham, sales manager of the Peanut Growers' association, called as an expert witness, was on the stand when court adjourned. The calling of Mr. Worsham precipitated legal argument over the admissibility on his testimony that the "farmer's stock" peanuts should have been marketed in 1921-1922. Mr. Worsham declared the 1921-1922 crop was slightly above normal, but not enough to have had any material effect on the market, and he testified that to the best of his knowledge, there had been a small "carryover" from the previous year, and small portion of the heavy tariff that was placed on peanuts about that time.

Sold Nuts Quickly.
J. H. Alexander, Jr., cashier of a Scotland Neck, N. C., bank, who in 1921 was a director of the Peanut Growers' exchange in 1921 and later president of that association, testified that the exchange—now the Peanut Growers' association—sold peanuts in 1922 as quickly as possible under the circumstances and at the best market prices. His testimony was intended by counsel for the plaintiff to rebut the allegation of defendants that the exchange had held peanuts from the market, later flooding the market with them and causing a slump in prices.

P. B. Bain, president of the American Peanut Corporation, called by Lawrence L. Levy, counsel for the plaintiff, testified that subsidiary branches of that corporation, several of which are defendants in the present suit, were maintained only to keep their respective brands of goods on the market.

John D. Pinner, president of the Suffolk Peanut company, was called by Mr. Levy to corroborate previous testimony that his concern was engaged in interstate commerce, it being one of the allegations of the plaintiff that the defendants con-

Manchester, England, September 21.—The Federation of Cotton Spinners has decided that the 50 per cent curtailment in production in the American cotton spinning sector should be continued during October. This regulation has been operative since March.

OKLAHOMA DRAGON OF KLAN ARRESTED

Okahoma legislature here next Wednesday will be attempting an "unlawful" assembly, because 68 members of the house also are members of the Ku Klux Klan, Governor J. C. Walton declared here tonight in stating that he would oppose the session. "There will be no meeting of the legislature, the Klan is whipped," said the governor.

The executive's statement was made to a battery of newspaper correspondents who pressed him for an indication as to his position on the proposed session. He already had announced that he probably would issue a lengthy statement on the subject.

"The main agitators of this movement are klan members, aided by the Klan press," Governor Walton declared. "I am not a member of the Ku Klux Klan, but I am a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and one of the leaders in the session movement, not only has declared that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, but has declared that he is an opponent of the organization, the governor said."

Alabama House Passes Bill To Execute by Electricity.

Montgomery, Ala., September 21.—The house of the Alabama legislature this afternoon passed the Inzer bill, substituting the electric chair in the state instead of the hangman's noose in the execution of criminals. The bill becomes a law with the governor's signature.

MIAMI BANKS SHOW BIG DEPOSITS GAIN

Miami, Fla., September 21.—Miami's bank deposits on the date of the last bank call, September 14, showed a gain of 44 per cent over the same date one year ago, according to a summary made by the Federal Reserve Bank. Deposits aggregated $25,876,007, or about $75 per capita. Bankers attribute the tremendous gain to the rapid growth of the city and the large development projects under way here.

COBB COTTON CROP FAR BELOW NORMAL

Marietta, Ga., September 21.—Cotton picking is on in full blast in Cobb county, for cotton is opening rapidly, and the weather is ideal. The farmers predict that not more than forty per cent of a cotton crop will be made this year. Besides the ravages of the boll-weevil, the crop has suffered severely from the army worms.

CAVALRY CHARGES INTO RIOT CROWDS

Bucharest, September 21.—Bulgarian censorship obscures details of the anti-Zankoff revolt in Bulgaria, but it appears the revolt has collapsed. Undated messages received here describe cavalry dispersing revolutionary mobs in Sofia. Captives were beaten by the soldiers, it is said. Wholesale arrests are being made, and the government is rapidly restoring order.

New Skating Rink.

Waycross, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Waycross is to have an up-to-date skating rink during the winter months if present plans of R. W. Davis, proprietor of the local swimming pool mature. Mr. Davis is preparing to erect a large addition to his present building, with a floor space of over 5,000 feet. The new building will not only be available for skating but also for athletic contest and indoor games. It is expected that work on the new structure will be well under way by October 1.

May Start Own Paper.

Declaring that most of the newspapers of the state are owned by a small group of men, and that the public interest is being sacrificed, Governor Walton announced today that he is contemplating the establishment of a newspaper of his own in order to get all the facts before the people. "Most of the newspapers are owned by a small group of men, and they are not interested in the public interest," he said. "I am going to start a newspaper of my own, and I will get all the facts before the people."

PROBE AT TULSA BARE 2 NEW CASES.

Tulsa, Okla., September 21.—Two additional whipping episodes, which brought to 116 the total number in the record of the Tulsa military commission were mentioned in today's testimony by a goodly number of new witnesses who appeared before the officers. Several women were among those who entered the chambers during the day.

PLAN TO REMOVE MILITARY OVERSEERS.

Tulsa, Okla., September 21.—Preparations were being made by opponents of Governor Walton here today to launch court proceedings to remove the military overseers from the office of County Sheriff Sanford. It was expected suit would be filed later today or Saturday morning, it was said by Representative W. E. Disney, a house leader, who is directing the move.

GOVERNOR UNDECEASED AS TO EXACT COURSE.

Okahoma City, September 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Military courts in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Shawnee dug into flogging cases and Governor J. C. Walton named plans for combating the impeachment movement against him.

Early tonight the governor had not reached a final decision as to the course he will pursue when members of the lower house attempt to convene next Wednesday to hear charges against him.

During the day Governor Walton contented himself with giving out an opinion written by Paul Nesbitt, state highway commissioner and a former speaker of the house, which held that the legislators have no power under the constitution or statutes to assemble without executive call.

Reveals 16 Floggings.

That 16 whippings had been uncovered during the military court investigation at Tulsa was the statement tonight of officers of the court. Two additional floggings were revealed today, it was stated.

SHERRIFFS INVADE KLAN MEETING TO SEIZE PAPERS.

San Antonio, September 21.—Deputy sheriffs invaded the secret meeting of the Ku Klux Klan at the San Antonio Speedway where an initiation and barbecue was being held early tonight and served injunction writs upon five alleged members of the Klan. The injunction which was issued at noon by Judge Robert W. B. Terrell, upon application of the knights of the Ku Klux Klan, a corporation, with headquarters in Atlanta, restrained the San Antonio Klan from conferring the second degree.

Writs were served upon four alleged members of the organization after the deputy sheriffs refused to be turned away by guards who patrolled the enclosure. Another klan member was served by Sheriff James Stevens as he entered the grounds.

Elaborate precautions were taken early in the night to prevent klan members from parading either on the streets of San Antonio or on the route roads. Both the police and sheriff's forces were considerably augmented by special officers who patrolled the streets and roads leading to the speedway. Klan members were kept moving and officers saw to it that no occupant of an automobile was masked.

Police headquarters reported at 8 o'clock that no persons had appeared in mask on the streets.

"And I had the same chance as John"

Two Men and their money

JOHN SMITH and I grew up together as boys. We went to the same college.

I still remember the day about a month after we had secured a job with the same company when John came to me and said, "Bill, we ought to start saving some money; let's open a savings account today."

I laughed; the idea of trying to save anything out of a hundred dollars salary. There would be plenty of time later on when I was making more.

But John started right in. He didn't save much at first, but he got the savings habit. And every time he got a raise he saved more.

Somehow I never got started. When I got a raise there always seemed to be something I needed. The money slipped away. Often I was in debt. My creditors worried me calling up the office at all hours.

One day several years later, the president of the company called John and me to his office and offered to let us buy some stock in the company. IT WAS an opportunity. John was ready for it, he had money in the bank—AND HE HAD CREDIT WITH THE BANK. I had neither.

Today John is president of the company and I am still a clerk. And I am getting old. I can't keep on much longer. What will become of me when—

Why won't people start saving in time! Why do they fritter away their best years, spending money recklessly, ending their lives in poverty and misery?

This bank wants YOU to succeed—and we are willing and ready to help you. Come in and let us explain how.

Spanish Play Will Open Drama League Season Oct. 2

The Drama league will meet Tuesday afternoon, October 2, on the lawn of Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, the league's first vice president, weather permitting, when a delightful little Spanish play will be given. Mrs. Slaton, Cyril Smith, Miss Erika Jarnagin and George Harrison in the leading parts.

The little play, "A Sunny Morning," by the Quintero brothers, is perfectly adapted for out-of-door purposes, for it is the meeting of two very old people, a coquettish old lady and a crochety old man who meet, after many years, on a park bench and discover that they are lovers of long ago.

Mr. Smith as the crochety old gentleman and Mrs. Slaton as the lovely coquette are two of the most delightful characters yet presented in Atlanta amateur dramatics.

Preceding the play there will be a brief business session with the presentation of officers for the season and discussion of plans for the year.

Marietta Y.W.C.A., Now Re-Organizing, Plans Year's Work

Marietta, Ga., September 21.—(Special).—The Marietta Y. W. C. A. has just been reorganized, and plans made for the coming year.

The officers at present are Miss Mable Cortelyou, president; Mrs. George H. Keeler, vice president; Mrs. W. L. Harris, secretary; and Mrs. W. L. Richardson, treasurer.

The chairmen of the various committees are: Mrs. J. E. Sage, finance; Miss Louise Schilling, headquarters; Mrs. George Daniels, service; Miss Mary Lizzie Benson, education; Miss Elizabeth Faw, publicity; Mrs. Regina Bambo Benson, dramatic council; Mrs. Mattie Lyons, religious education; Mrs. S. D. Rambo, executive. Other board members are Mrs. R. N. Holland, Mrs. S. C. McEachern, Mrs. T. W. Read, Mrs. Harold Hawkins, and Miss Ora Chandler.

Miss Annie Smith, of Lexington, Ga., is the efficient "Y" secretary. She is a graduate of Agnes Scott college, had post-graduate work at Columbia university, and took special training for Y. work at the National Training School of the Y. W. C. A. in New York City.

Many Girls' Clubs.

The Marietta Y. W. C. A. includes the Business Girls' League, with 50 members; the Girl Reserves, with about one hundred members; and a club of 30 at a time for the Industrial Girls. Their headquarters consist of five rooms, reception room, office, fully equipped kitchen, and two club rooms which may be converted into a large dining room. All are attractively furnished in a color scheme of cream and dark blue, with hangings and upholstery of gayly flowered cretonne. The Y. also owns the auditorium, which, with its good stage, remarkably fine lighting system and fittings would be a credit to a much larger city.

The health committee is co-operating with the Women's club in its plans for Better Babies week, October 1-6, and the Y. rooms will be headquarters for the week. The committee is planning tennis courts and volleyball courts for the Girl Reserves this year.

The general education committee will sponsor a night school for the industrial girls this winter. It is also preparing to offer classes in basketry, flower making, favors, etc. The service committee serves the regular Friday luncheon to the Rotary club and serves luncheons and dinners to the American Legion and other civic bodies frequently.

The Business Girls' league has rented Jennie Wren Cottage, two miles from town, and here the Business Girls and Girl Reserves will enjoy week-end parties.

The Business Girls' league will have a lecture course for Marietta this winter. They have also brought Redpath Chautauque here for three summers.

The Marietta Y. W. C. A. was organized in 1918. Mrs. S. D. Rambo was first president, Mrs. A. S. J. Gardner the second, and these two devoted women held it together through years of storm and stress and financial depression.

A remarkable amount of good has been accomplished, and rapid advancement made. The work of the Dramatic council, under the management of Mrs. Regina Bambo Benson, has been an outstanding feature. The gifted and indefatigable Mrs. Benson has put on numbers of very high class plays, musical comedies given entirely by local talent. The Marietta Y. W. C. A. is one of the first in the United States to be connected with the Little Theatre movement.

In 1919 the wonderful Y. W. C. A. pageant, "The Blue Crossers," with 500 people in the cast was given here, Marietta being one of six places in the United States for this pageant to be shown.

The sacred dramatic cantata, "Saul," has been beautifully presented twice under the auspices of the Dramatic Council and the Y's yearly Christmas gift to the town is the beautiful sacred play, "The Nativity," given at the auditorium every Christmas night.

—If you want to see a happy, delighted throng of women, today's the day! —
Specially planned—a whole day of the Fashion Events given over to CONSERVATIVELY styled dresses. The very dresses that, much to the regret of women who want the sort, are a rare thing at such an amazingly low price, as women will admit! A clear indication of Rich's service to ALL Atlanta women—and more wonderful proof of the great good the Fashion Events are doing throughout the entire city!

—Fashionably styled! You can see that from the actual sketches of four of them, shown above. Long lines, flying panels, lovely flowing sleeves, dainty white collars, the much-wanted braids and embroideries, and, of course, there are PLEATS! Black, navy and brown.

—150 of them—they'll be bought faster than they can be wrapped!

22d Infantry Tendered Dance At Ft. McPherson

Members of the Officers' club of Fort McPherson were entertained at an informal dance at the Service club Friday evening. This social occasion was in the nature of a welcome to officers of the Twenty-Second Infantry who have been in camp during the summer months, and to the officers on duty in the city.

The club was decorated with flags and other army insignia.

The orchestra of the Twenty-Second Infantry band provided music for dancing.

Mrs. Norman Sharp Names Patronesses For Curb Market

Mrs. Norman Sharp, chairman of the curb market committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, has appointed patronesses for the market hours on Saturday, as follows: Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. Newton Wing, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. Rupert Hall, Mrs. W. P. Dunn, Mrs. Fuzzy Woodruff, Mrs. Charles Goodman, Mrs. Lawton Nally, Mrs. George Turner, Mrs. Charles Robertson and Mrs. James T. Williams.

The building of the municipal curb market is rapidly going forward, and the farmers are receiving the best cooperation from the housewives of Atlanta.

During this season of the year, when the spring and summer fruits and vegetables are usually hard to find, the farmers at the curb market are fully supplied, from a late planting, which is at this time yielding fresh produce.

Boys and Girls Will See Pictures at Howard Matinee

"One Exciting Night" will be the feature showing at the Howard theater Saturday morning. Opportunity to place this exceptional picture before the young patrons of the boys and girls' matinees, sponsored by the Atlanta Better Films committee each Saturday morning was afforded through the United Artists, film distributors, the picture being run by the United Artists entirely gratis to the committee.

This picture stands alongside the big pictures of this year in the estimation of critics and carried the "exceptional endorsement." To single out one star for mention would be unjust to the perfection exhibited by all actors in this truly exciting play, which is filled with creeps, thrills, suspense and laughter.

"Spending $5,000,000 a Day" is the title of the instructional film and shows the manner of obtaining the water supply of a great city.

Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd will make a full program of laughter at the Alpha matinee, in "The Cure" and "Number, Please." The feature film will be "Over the Cliff," the eighth episode of the interesting historical serials "In the Days of Daniel Boone," Mrs. G. H. Gray, chairman of chaperones, announces that Mrs. E. H. Goodhart will assist her in chaperoning at the Howard theater and Mrs. Ellis Barrett at the Alpha.

Miss Winslow Is Honor Guest.

Miss Beatrice Christine Winslow, whose marriage to Hugh Wallace Flake will take place October 9, was guest of honor at a bridge-ten at the home of Mrs. E. F. Prioleau, Mrs. Thomas Morgan and Mrs. Walter Bowman.

Mrs. E. V. Kinkead, of Columbus, Ohio, who is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Alexander, was honored at a party at which her daughter entertained. The guests invited to meet Mrs. Kinkead included Mrs. I. A. King and Mrs. R. E. Elliott.

Mrs. M. A. Jacobson entertained in honor of Mrs. S. A. Ginsberg, of New York, and Mrs. George Snider, of Gastonia, N. C. her guests including Mrs. Leon Stegell, Mrs. L. A. Stegell, Mrs. L. Van Slaveron, Mrs. Ben Bress and Miss Laurette Berko.

A party, at which Mrs. J. T. Selman was hostess, included Mrs. E. L. Johnson and her guest, Mrs. Murray, of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. M. J. Wright.

Among other entertaining were Mrs. Let Goodrich, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. J. R. Pearce, Mrs. G. Chapman and Mrs. E. L. Caton.

Many Gay Groups Enjoy Teas at Woman's Club

The regular Friday afternoon teas assembled many visitors at the Atlanta Woman's club. Many charming groups were gathered in the clubhouse, which was decorated with fall flowers, arranged in silver baskets and placed in great profusion throughout the lower floor. Tea was served at individual tables in the banquet hall. Each table was spread with Madeira cloth, and held in the center a small basket filled with dahlias.

One of the largest parties was that given by Mrs. Herbert Choate, in honor of her guests, Mrs. T. P. Vincent and Miss Oley Vincent, of Athens. The party was completed by Mrs. Bolling Jones, Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Goldsmith, Mrs. Norwood Mitchell, Mrs. E. S. Papp and Miss Mary Cowan.

Mrs. Woods White, who leaves next week for an extended trip in Europe, was the guest of honor in the party at which Mrs. J. Osmond Wynne entertained Mrs. Charles Haden, Mrs. E. F. Prioleau, Mrs. Thomas Morgan and Mrs. Walter Bowman.

Mrs. Murray Hubbard Is New Head of Needlework Guild

Mrs. Murray Hubbard was elected president and Mrs. Ben Elsas, was elected first vice-president of the Atlanta branch of the National Needlework Guild at the meeting of the executive board held Friday morning at the residence of the honorary president, Mrs. Arnold Broyles, on Juniper street.

The executive board is composed of the general officers and the presidents of the thirty sections of the guild in to which the city branch is divided. There are about 3,000 members of the Atlanta Guild which distributed 7,000 garments the past year among the forty charitable institutions in the city.

At the meeting Friday morning plans were made for the collection of garments to be held October 27. Mrs. Fred Stewart will entertain the officers and section presidents at tea at the next meeting October 22. This will be the only meeting to take place before the garment collection will be made.

which Mrs. Hugh Hayes entertained Friday at her home in Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Hayes wore a gown of blue crepe.

Miss Winslow was gowned in black satin with a hat to match.

The guests included 16 friends of the honoree.

Miss Powell Is Guest of Honor.

Mrs. J. T. Holleman entertained at bridge Friday afternoon at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in honor of Miss Grace Powell, sub-daughter of Judge and Mrs. Arthur G. Powell, who will leave Monday to resume her studies at Bryn Mawr in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Holleman wore a gown of white lace and chiffon.

Miss Powell's afternoon gown was of dark blue crepe de Chine, worn with a velvet hat to match.

The guests included a group of friends of Miss Powell's.

Miss Pratt Honors Brides at Bridge.

A pleasant social event of Friday was the bridge-ten at which Miss Margaret Pratt entertained at her home in Euclid avenue in honor of Miss Mary Matthews and Miss Maude Carlton, brides-elect of October, and Mrs. William Sutherland, who here her recent marriage was Miss Sarah Hall, of Newman.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the use of flowers from the garden surrounding the lovely home. The prizes were French novelties. The top score prize was a rose-pink powder box and the consolation was a bridge score set.

Miss Pratt was assisted by her sister, Miss Telsie Pratt, who wore a charming gown of blue charmeuse with trimming of fur.

The hostess received her guests in a lovely afternoon gown of Chinese blue Georgette crepe, embroidered with cut steel beads.

The guests included the members of the bridal parties of the guests of honor.

Who's who and what's happened? Synopsis—Same as for Chapter 83: Frank Carver asks Gloria to marry him.

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

One More Tangle.

When Gloria returned from the railway station to the hotel, she met Virginia and Morton Phelps, just hearing.

"Oh—we've left word for you at the desk. I want to see you." As usual, Virginia took command. "We'll come back with you now."

Wearily Gloria turned toward the elevator. She had supposed that Virginia was through with her for a while, at least, and here she was, back again, looking so stern that Gloria thought gratefully of Frank Carver. Even though she didn't love him, it would be a relief to be married to him, so that Virginia couldn't scold her any more.

"What is it now?" she asked, as she went.

"It's you and Morton!" Virginia exclaimed angrily. "You might as well tell me the truth now. I was mistaken about your running away with him; I realize that. It was Mini—Mini Edwards would do anything! And now that she's married to Guy, she's the most innocent looking thing! But it's—well, Morton has confessed that you and he are in love with each other and have been since before he and I were married. He says—"

"That isn't true. It isn't true at all!" cried Gloria. "Oh, Virginia, don't believe that. It's a wicked lie. I did care a lot for him. I was infatuated with him—I'll admit that. But that was before I knew that you knew him at all. When I saw him standing there, waiting to be married to you, I—oh, I was so amazed that I nearly collapsed."

"But I tried awfully hard to forget about him, and keep away from where he was. Only you kept dragging me back together, somehow. When I came to New York I met you at his broker's," Virginia replied, quite ignoring her husband. She had bought him; he was hers, and she proposed to keep him, but she could ignore him, nevertheless. "I refused to give him any more, and we quarreled—and he said that he didn't care, he could easily get money from somebody else. He said that he'd leave me—and I couldn't bear that; I love him too much."

"I am going to marry Frank Carver!"

Phelps leaned back in his chair, looking more complacent than ever. Gloria wanted to tell her cousin that she was making a mistake in letting him realize what power he had over her, but knew that it would be useless.

"Then he taunted me with your caring for him, and said that he could always go to you," Virginia went on. "And when I said I didn't believe that, and he insisted that it was true, I said that we'd come here to you and clear this thing up once and for all."

"You say it isn't true—but then, I can't be sure you're telling the truth."

"Oh, Virginia, how can you say that, when I've never lied to you?" cried Gloria. "Won't you believe me? I've told you the truth about thinking once that I cared for him, but I've completely got over that—I have the greatest contempt for him now."

Strangely enough, that made Virginia angry. She could find fault with her husband, but she would not let anyone else do it.

"Contentment! And why should you feel that way about Morton?" she demanded. "He's—well—he's caught between her impulse to defend him and her desire to find out whether he and Gloria really cared for each other. I believe that you're just trying to deceive me; you can't make me think that Morton would deliberately lie to me."

"Oh, Virginia, be sensible!" Gloria was beginning to be disgusted at Virginia's attitude, as the first shock wore off. "Of course he would; he'd do anything that would make you come round and give him money and you might as well realize it. As for me—well, you can hardly think that I'm in love with Morton when you know the truth. I'm going to marry Frank Carver."

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

But Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N.Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter for the good it has done me, I will be glad to have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N.Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a trial. Let it help you.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Takes Away the Shine.
The use of a wooden or partly wooden pressing cloth will ward off that shiny look that so often looms up at the home pressing.

For the Carpenter.
When you are replacing a broken window pane a red-hot poker pushed slowly over the old putty will prove effective aid in removing the pane.

Practical and Beautiful.
When having electricity put into the home have the fixture placed with a view to a combination of service and attractive arrangement. So often the general effect of a room is lovely, but when one desires to read or sew it is almost impossible to get a good light on one's work.

In the Kitchen.
Nuts that are kept cold will not become rancid.

Do not use coarse sugar in cake batter, as it is apt to toughen the cake.

A pinch of cream of tartar in with the other ingredients will prevent fudge from sugaring.

Vegetable stains on your hands will disappear if you will hold your fingers in very strong tea for a few minutes, then wash with soap and water.

GOVERNOR PLEASED WITH TAX MEETING

Governor Clifford Walker, who was back at his office Friday after attending several meetings of the special tax commission, expressed himself as highly pleased with the progress made by that body so far. The tour has been one hundred per cent successful to date, he said, and gives promise of exceeding expectations in its efforts to find a solution of the taxation problems of the state.

Next week, the governor announced, the commission will hold meetings in south and middle Georgia as follows: Tuesday, Columbus; Wednesday, Albany; Thursday, Macon; Friday, Savannah.

Adviser meetings will be held in Atlanta until after completion of the state tour.

WOMAN IS SEEKING MISSING HUSBAND IN STATE PRISONS

There is a woman in New York who is very anxious to find her husband who has been missing since December 15, 1922. She thinks he may be in a Georgia prison and she has written the state prison commission to find out if Joan Kendrick (or Kendrick—the writing in the letter is not very distinct) is in the clutches of the Georgia law. No such name is on the records at the commission, however.

What centered the deserted wife's attention on Georgia was the fact that one week after he had left home the husband wrote her from Atlanta and told her she could write him here, care general delivery. She has been in the city seeking him, but failed to find him. He is now reported as dangerously ill and penniless, as a result of his fruitless search. She is living with her two children at the home of a friend in the Bronx, and it is this friend who writes, at her request, trying to institute a search of the Georgia prisons. Her address is on file at the state prison commission of the city.

TITUSVILLE TRACT BOUGHT FOR RESORT

Miami, Fla., September 21.—For a cooperation approximately $250,000 Phil J. Foran and Frank L. Gosser, Jr., of this city have bought a tract of 2,500 acres east of Titusville, with five miles of ocean frontage. Work will start soon on the construction of a boulevard along the ocean for the length of the property. It will be subdivided and placed on the market this winter. Offices will be located in Miami, Titusville and Orlando.

A woman returned from a visit in a neighboring town, says The Sabatena. "What sort of a place is it?" she was asked. "Oh, it's a pretty town, with nice people, not very highbrow; the sort that never heard of Joseph Conrad until his wife commenced writing recipes in Good Housekeeping."

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Dark Green Braided with Black Is One of the Best Selections of the Autumn for the Smart Street Frocks.

There may be in your range of associations something sulkier about the use of braid on women's clothes. Your notion of a braided frock may suggest the costume of Frieda Hempel in "The Daughter of the Regiment."

At the watering places of France this summer a little flaring coat of some light color, trimmed in the same all-over design in braid, has been counted among the smartest of wraps. These, like the little fur-trimmed jacket shown in the sketch, were worn with plain, simple dark frocks.

Looped braid has been something of a novelty. Lenief makes an entire coat of loops of braid, and looped braid has been lavishly used as a trimming on frocks by other dressmakers of note.

A very narrow soutache that looks like string has been used to make flower-like rosettes on some of the new frocks. Braid on frocks though it may actually widen the contour by a fraction of an inch, help, is one of the developments of fashion which is favorable to the woman of too, too solid flesh.

Much has been said of the revival of navy blue, perhaps less of the gradually increasing prominence played by the dark shades of green. There is now little doubt, however, of the importance of dark shades of green. Women who have never ventured to wear this color are now accepting their little doubts, and guessing that it is an excellent choice for the more elaborate street frock or severer frock of afternoon frock.

Both the navy blue and dull—is the green most often spoken of in connection with daytime frocks of green, while a warmer green, known as hunter's green, has been suggested as "the color of Robin Hood's doublet," is gaining ground.

Green cloth jacket embroidered with black satin outline and worn with black satin frock. The cuffs are of black fur.

Braided frocks of this sort have the potentiality of smartness.

The HOUSEHOLD Edited by Anne Rittenhouse

WHEN YOU USE CURRY.
Curry powder should be used to add flavor to rather flavorless food—not, as is sometimes the case, with food that has acquired a questionable flavor through long keeping.

"This meat isn't really bad," says one housewife. "But it has been kept long enough to taste just a little stale. We'll serve it with curry." That is, of course, an absurd stand to take. However, if you have meat left over from a batch of soup—and meat that is perfectly fresh and wholesome but rather flat—then a good plan is to make it into a curry dish. It is an unnecessary extravagance to get the first cut of meat for the foundation of a curry dish.

The list of foods with which curry may be used is a long one and includes some that are good enough in themselves not to need it. Among them are chicken, sweetbreads, ham, tongue, fish, veal, lamb, rice, potatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, carrots and onions.

Curried rice is an excellent dish to add to your list because it is inexpensive and rather distinguished. One good recipe calls for one cup of rice before cooking, four tablespoons of butter and one teaspoon of curry with a little salt. Boil the rice in a quantity of salted water, drain and spread on a dish and dry slightly in the oven. Now cream the butter and curry together and stir it lightly into the rice and serve at once. This is good to serve in place of potatoes with chicken or veal, though it is excellent as a luncheon dish in itself.

Curried eggs are delicious. If you like the curry flavor, make a medium thick white sauce and add a half teaspoon of curry powder stirred with a little cold milk. Heat this thoroughly and pour over hard-boiled eggs cut in half lengthwise.

A more complicated recipe for curried chicken calls for a single slice of onion and a quarter of an apple sliced thin. Put a tablespoon of butter in the frying pan and cook onion and apple until tender, adding a tablespoon of grated coconut or chopped almonds and a teaspoon of curry powder rubbed smooth with a bit of cold water. Now make a white sauce from one tablespoon of butter, one teaspoon of flour and a half cup of chicken stock or gravy. Stir smooth and let cook five minutes or so. Add one cup of diced, cooked chicken, with the curry mixture already prepared. Add a few tablespoons of cream if you have it. Serve very hot.

Monday Meeting Is Postponed.

On account of the absence of Governor Walker, who will be out of the city with the tax commission next week, and who has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the Women's division, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the meeting has been postponed from Monday night, September 24, to Monday night, October 1, at the chamber of commerce building.

Governor Walker will speak on "The Need for Tax Reform in Georgia."

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

HASTY HINTS.

Do you know how many last minute things to do to improve your appearance? If, for instance, some afternoon when you had ever worked and were dead tired and didn't have time to care what you looked like, someone called you up and wanted you to dress and dine out and go to a dance or a theater—do you know what you do? You look as fresh and rested and pretty as though you have loafed all the day long?

If you've only a few minutes, rub your face, neck and elbows vigorously with cold cream, wash off with hot water and soap, rinse with cold water in a basin, with a teaspoonful of time water of benzoin in the water, and powder.

When you undo your hair, slip your fingers through it and rub the scalp vigorously all over. This makes you feel fresh and freshens the hair too. Rub cold cream around the fingernails after washing, and push the skin back with an orange wood stick, wash off the cream just before you go out and polish. This makes the nails look new every time.

If you've more time, rub the skin with cold cream, wipe off and rub on the white of an egg. Lie down 10 to 20 minutes, then wash off with cold water. Wash off the egg and wash the face and smear with cold cream. Let this stay on while you are in the bath. The white of the egg will help the skin absorb it. Massage a little, wipe off what's left of the cream, rinse with cold water with a few drops of benzoin added—this treatment stimulates the blood, makes the skin look fine and firm and smooths wrinkles. Its effect lasts many hours.

Rub the scalp, wave the hair the least bit on a not-too-hot iron if it looks wilted; brush out and dress it becomingly. Powder yourself from head to foot, the powder is cooling and refreshing. Manicure your nails if you've time, and do not dress until you must, for being in negligee is in itself very restful.

E. M. B.—Nothing but the permanent wave will keep straight hair in curl all the time, but you may be able to keep your hair in curl throughout the day by using a curling fluid on days when the weather is very damp.

Such a fluid is made by dissolving gum tragacanth in very hot water. When it cools it will be like a heavy gum, which will require diluting with sufficient water until the fluid is like a thin muciage.

Dampen the hair with this mixture and form into curls, allowing the hair to dry this way, after which comb and shake out the dried particles of the gum. If your hair yields to training, you may only need use this fluid once or twice a week, unless the weather is very damp. On such days the work will have to be done over.

E. G.—Full instructions for reducing would consume too much of our column's space; but I will be glad to mail you information on receipt of a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

GREAT LIQUOR THEFT IS BARED BY AGENTS

St. Louis, Mo., September 21.—The exact amount of whisky "spirited" away from the local warehouse of the Jack Daniel distillery was $800 barrels, federal officials announced today. It was said to be one of the biggest whisky thefts since the enactment of the prohibition law.

Each barrel contained 42 gallons, and it was estimated that at the drug store price of $10 a gallon the stolen whisky had a retail value of $2,800,288.

WORKING HOURS BILLS KILLED IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., September 21.—The senate committee on mining and manufacturing today rejected the bill of Senator Walter S. Brown, Jefferson county, which, on its passage, would have regulated the eight hours, standard work day for women in Alabama. Immediately upon rejection of the Brown bill, the senate advised the bill of Senator McNeil, Fayette county, limiting the work day for convicts in the state to ten hours.

DATE OF CONFERENCE ON TRADE POSTPONED

New York, September 21.—The southern trade congress convention which was to have been held here early in October has been postponed until next May, it was announced today. The action was taken because of the serious illness of Mayor Hylan, honorary chairman of the New York convention committee and requests from southern business men.

CHILDREN TO ASSIST STONE MOUNTAIN FUND

In order that children of Atlanta may have a part in building the great memorial to the Confederacy, now being carved upon the granite face of Stone Mountain, and that, at the same time, these children may be correctly taught as to the facts concerning the war between the states and the south's part in that conflict, the Atlanta Board of Education has adopted resolutions providing for these ends.

As a result of these resolutions the week in which April 28 is included throughout the public school system. During that week teachers, co-operating with the Parent-Teacher association, will arrange for children of the different schools to put on entertainments, the programs to center around the 1862 feature of the history of the Confederacy. An admission price to these entertainments is to be fixed and proceeds donated to the Stone Mountain Monumental association, the total to be presented on April 28 as a tribute from Atlanta's public school children.

These resolutions were drawn up and submitted by a special committee, and were adopted without change by the board at its meeting last Wednesday. Those on the committee representing the board were Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, Mrs. Kate Green Hess, Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Mrs. R. E. Jones, Mrs. E. C. McCutcheon and Mrs. Howell Dodd.

Resolutions by Board.
The resolutions in full read as follows:
Whereas, The Stone Mountain Monumental association has completed its organization and has executed its contract to build on the side of Stone Mountain a gigantic memorial to the leaders of the Confederacy; and
Whereas, The memorial is to depict and immortalize the great names made memorable in the historic struggle for the right as our fathers understood it; and
Whereas, The facts concerning the Civil war and the south's participation in the same constituted a subject which should be correctly taught and justly interpreted to all the children who live in the south; and
Whereas, The board of education has always set aside the 26th of April as a holiday for the children of our public schools; and
Whereas, Great educational value can be realized by the study of the historical background of the Civil war; and
Whereas, We believe that the children of

Atlanta should take the lead in setting an example for participation in preserving the history of the War Between the States, and should especially have a part in the building of this great memorial; and

Amount of Unspinnable Cotton in Carry Over For Year Not Known

There are no figures available on the amount of unspinnable cotton in the carry-over for this year, in so far as the U. S. department of commerce is concerned, according to a letter received Friday by Governor Walker from Secretary Herbert Hoover.

Secretary Hoover expressed his opinion that there ought to be legislation to provide for the compilation and publication of such figures. Governor Walker, together with governors of other cotton states, asked Secretary Hoover for this information in the belief that, if such figures were made public, they would have a beneficial effect on the present price of cotton.

COMPENSATION ACT UPHELD IN TWO CASES

In two decisions rendered Friday by the Georgia court of appeals, awards of the state industrial commission under the workmen's compensation act, were upheld. In both cases it was contended that men killed in the course of their employment did not come under the provisions of the act.

The case of the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation against Annie C. Wishard, widow of T. C. Wishard, was appealed from Sumter superior court. Wishard, driver of an ice wagon, was killed while crossing a railroad track. The court held that, since it was necessary he cross the track in his regular delivery route, he died performing regular duties required by his work.

In the other case, John Bacon, a from a boat to extinguish clothing set on fire by an explosion on the boat. The Travelers' Insurance company, defendants in the suit brought by the widow, Ida Bacon, argued that the case came under the admiralty law, but the court of appeals decided that, inasmuch as the accident happened on a creek, and that Bacon's contract—fishing for shrimp and prawn—required that he keep in sight of land, the state law has jurisdiction.

SOCIETY LEADER PRESSES CHARGE OF BLACKMAIL

Boston, September 21.—Mrs. Nathaniel Franklin Emmons, Boston society leader and cousin of Bishop William Lawrence, appeared in municipal court to press charges of a $10,000 blackmail attempt.

her to a veteran, and demanded $10,000 for its surrender.
Le Baron's alleged attempt to obtain money from her, Mrs. Emmons told the police, was one of a series of attempted extortions of sums ranging up to $200,000 by a gang of which she accused Le Baron of being a member.

RETAIL MERCHANTS WELCOME FLORISTS AT THURSDAY MEET

A formal welcome of the Atlanta Florist and Horticulturists club and an address by Rabbi David Marx will be features of the first full membership meeting of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association Thursday at 6:15 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce building. The florists' club has been accepted into membership of the association for several weeks, but has not been formally admitted. It is the purpose of the meeting to officially recognize the club members.

The subject of the address by Rabbi Marx is "Business Fellowship." Five other speakers, including F. E. Kampfer, national president of the Retail Food Dealers' association, will give short talks on "Budgeting Expenses of a Retail Store," and after these, the body will go into a general discussion of the subject.

H. C. ERWIN EXPLAINS STATEMENT ON TAXES

Stating that his suggestion for an income tax had been misunderstood in some respects, Howell C. Erwin, Athens attorney, in a letter to The Constitution Friday explained his statements before the governor and his tax commission at the hearing in Athens, Thursday night.

Father of Youth Shot by Officers To Demand Probe

Charging that his 15-year-old son, William Ogle, Jr., was shot down without provocation by Policemen C. E. Floyd and G. W. Richardson about 5 o'clock Friday morning, William Ogle, chief engineer at the Anley hotel, Friday night issued a statement in which he declared his determination to have the entire affair thoroughly probed.

Ogle, who with four others, was discovered in an automobile at a gasoline filling station on Georgia avenue, was shot down when he attempted to make his escape on foot, after abandoning his companions in the car, it is claimed.

Surgeons at the Grady hospital, where he was rushed for medical attention, stated his condition was serious, but that he has a good chance to recover. The bullet entered the hip, ranging upward.

T. H. Turk of 437 Crew street, one of the quartet arrested by the police, volunteered Friday afternoon to give blood from his own veins to aid his wounded companion. Another transfusion will likely take place Saturday morning, surgeons at the hospital stated.

ROSE DAY' CHAIRMEN GET SUPPLIES TODAY

With all preparations complete for the observance of "Rose Day" next Monday, chairmen of the various committees that will assist in the sale of the flowers on the streets of Atlanta are requested to call at headquarters of the Uncle Remus association, at 25 1-2 Whitehall street, today to obtain their supplies and information regarding the sale.

Mrs. Fred Stewart, chairman of the committee in charge; Mrs. H. M. Nicholas, Mrs. J. R. Binford, Mrs. H. G. Hastings, Mrs. T. T. Stevens and others will be at headquarters all day.

Proceeds of the sale of Cherokee roses on the streets on Monday will go towards a fund of $5,000, which the association is trying to raise, to purchase Snap Bean farm in the rear of the Wren's Nest, on Gordon street, and thus make complete the permanent memorial to the great southern writer and lover of nature, Joel Chandler Harris.

COLON POISONING DESTROYS HEALTH

Hastens Old Age and Premature Degeneration of All Vital Organs.

It is a wise man who understands his colon and keeps it in perfect working order. Health, happiness, vigor and long life are the gifts which an active colon can give you—and a lazy colon can take away.

Monday, P. R. Smith, the acting director, will return at the same time to his former position of administrative geologist of the survey.

The earliest known surgical instruments are copper knives found in a tomb 1500 B. C.

which, by their contraction, empty the colon just as you would squeeze a rubber hose pipe. These muscle fibres should contract three times a day—within an hour after each meal. If they do not contract, they have lost their tone—their power to contract.

But, there is a practically perfect remedy for lazy, flabby colons. This remedy quickly restores the tone, is absolutely harmless, and decidedly pleasant to take. Clip this article and take it to your druggist. Tell him to give you a bottle of that new preparation, called Colotone—the colon tonic. It will cost you one dollar if you are pleased with it, nothing if you are not pleased with it, for every druggist has been instructed to refund the price and ask no questions if his customer is not thoroughly satisfied.

But you will be delighted with Colotone for it will make you feel like a different person. Your eyes will sparkle with vitality and alertness; your brain will be clear and active; your complexion will be fresh and transparent, reflecting the purity of your blood; your digestion will be thorough and your appetite keen, for your food will taste delightful and will agree with you; you will sleep and awake refreshed; your system will be full of vim and vigor; you will feel younger, stronger, vigorous—you will enjoy the pleasure of living.

Get started on Colotone today. Nearly every person over twenty-five or thirty years of age, and many younger, need Colotone more or less. You will be simply delighted with it. Colotone cannot possibly do you any harm, can only do you good. Try it on our guarantee. It will help you live long, well and happily.—(adv.)

CALL FOR RALLY OF 'DRYS' IS OUT

Washington, September 21.—A call for a rally of the dry forces of the nation in support of the Eighteenth amendment, was sent forth tonight by the Federal Council of Churches. A "Goodness and Patriotism conference" was announced, to be held in Washington, October 14, 15 and 16, "to spur on those who believe in prohibition, but have lost active interest."

The call was signed by 758 men and women, including business men, college and university heads, clergymen, members of congress, mayors, heads of religious associations and leaders of women's organizations. Heading the list were the names of William Jennings Bryan, former Governor of Ohio, and Senator Charles McNary, of Oregon, and Commissioner Roy A. Haynes.

Dates chosen for the conference precede by a few days the time tentatively selected by President Coolidge for a meeting of governors on law enforcement. The call went out, however, before Mr. Coolidge's plans had been announced, and it was said there was no significance to be attached to the time of the gathering.

To Fight Wet Propaganda.
Two commissions of the Federal Council of Churches—those on temperance and on local councils of churches, sponsored the call, which, it was announced, was issued "in recognition of the tremendous propaganda which is being carried on to nullify the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and to discredit all law."

"Realizing," said a statement issued by leaders in the movement, "that inactivity and apathy has resulted in an apparent growth of liquor sentiment and in a non-observance of the enforcement act not only by state officials and bootleggers, but also by men and women who are law-abiding in every other way, the leaders state that they have planned the conference with the idea of 'renewing the morale of the moral and Christian forces upon the prohibition issue.'"

The statement set forth as "serious facts" that in certain sections there was an "alarming" degree of law vio-

Tokio Inhabitants Flee From Heavy Tidal Waves

Plans for the conference contemplate it being open to "all citizens, without distinction as to race or conditions, who believe in the preservation of the Constitution of the United States and the strict enforcement of all laws, including the 18th amendment and the Volstead act." It will be the purpose to make provision for carrying out whatever plans are decided on.

Among others who signed the call were: Senator Morris Shepley, of Texas; President F. A. McKenzie, of the University of Tennessee; Bishop William F. McQuinn, of the Episcopal church; Anna Gordon, president National Women's Christian Temperance Union; Rabbi Stephen Wise, New York city; Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary Young Men's Christian association; Bishop William Burke, of the Methodist Episcopal church; Bishop W. F. Anderson, Methodist Episcopal church; Bishop William N. Almon, Methodist Episcopal church; Dr. James I. Vance, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. John O. Spencer, president Morgan college, Baltimore; Joseph H. Apple, president Hood college, Frederick, Md.; Leslie A. Coblentz, Frederick, Md.; the Rev. L. O. Bricker, Atlanta; President Walter Agnew, Women's college, Montgomery, Ala.; John E. Edgerston, Lebanon, Tenn.; President H. W. Cox, Emory university, Georgia; O. J. Boyd, Charleston, S. C.; President Henry Nelson Snyder, Wofford college; President Charles J. Smith, Roanoke college.

Police Declared Unable To Give Traffic Relief
Chief Beavers Asserts Enforcement of Present Laws Is Impossible.

BY STEWART F. GELDERS.
No relief for traffic congestion in Atlanta will be given by the present police administration, it became apparent at the open conference Friday morning of the traffic committee of city council, Mayor Walter A. Sims, members of the police committee of city council, the executive committee of the Atlanta Safety Council and other interested citizens.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers, answering the Safety Council's appeal for traffic law enforcement with the flat statement that he will not be able to enforce existing laws unless the non-parking areas is extended.

Chief Beavers Asserts Enforcement of Present Laws Is Impossible.

A canvass of members of council and others in authority after the conference Friday morning indicated that little support will be given to either of these heroic measures. Neither of them is generally conceded to be necessary.

Substantial business interests of Atlanta and practically all women's organizations have stood resolutely against proposed extension of the non-parking area ever since it was first proposed and council has shown itself in no humor to antagonize them.

Influencing the administration and of practically every other department of the city government will be lined up against Alderman Armistead's proposal to extend the non-parking area $80,000 a year and as a result of the city's financial condition would make it necessary to reduce funds of other branches of city service by that amount next year.

Councilman Harry York, of the traffic committee, and city leaders at Atlanta Safety Council were going ahead Friday afternoon with plans to relieve the admitted congestion of downtown streets by department as much as possible.

The co-ordinated traffic movement system, now in use in New York, Chicago, Buffalo, Atlantic City and other cities and which Chief of Police Beavers said Friday morning is not practical, will be an innovation to the city of Atlanta.

Operate in Harmony.
Under this plan, all traffic signal lights in the downtown district would be operated in harmony, permitting flows of traffic north and south and, alternately east and west for regular and identical periods of time. Seven additional traffic policemen who are now compelled to sit down in the traffic towers and change at will the signal lights on each of seven corners would be relieved for duty on the streets in enforcing the parking regulations and keeping traffic moving.

The safety council is going ahead, with the cordial sanction of Mayor Sims, to organize a vigilance committee of private citizens to watch for traffic violations and report them to the safety council, which will act as an extra-legal agency to enforce traffic laws by means of fines where the police are unable to enforce them by law. The safety council will report persistent violators to the police.

Violation of parking regulations were blamed by most speakers at the Friday conference for congestion downtown. During the congested hours, from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock in the morning, and from 4 o'clock to 7 o'clock in the evening, the new traffic code, adopted in March, specifically forbids all parking on the principal downtown traffic arteries. These include Peachtree, Forsyth, Whitehall and Broad streets, which Chief Beavers said it would be necessary to make non-parking from 7 o'clock in the morning to 7 o'clock in the evening.

Laws Not Enforced.
Photographs taken Thursday evening and Friday morning for presentation to the conference Friday by George Deibert, secretary of the Atlanta Motor club, showing that the present parking regulations on these streets are not enforced during congested hours now.

The unofficial vigilance committee will observe these violations and report them.

Normal traffic can move through the streets without great inconvenience during the hours when parking is permitted but the rush hour traffic, when street cars are operating rush hour schedules and work-bound or homebound automobiles are trying to move through the streets, parking adds to congestion by making it impossible to pass moving street cars and holding down the entire traffic column to the speed of its slowest unit.

The conference Monday had been called by Mayor Sims after the executive committee of the Atlanta safety council, headed by Dudley R. Cowles, Coke Davis and Judge Shepherd, had passed resolutions calling on the police department for rigid and non-partisan enforcement of the present traffic laws. The committee was unanimous in the opinion that if the present laws are enforced, the traffic problem will be solved.

Helps Gotham Traffic.
Rev. John W. Ham, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, declared that the coordinated traffic signal light system would be of great help, citing his experience in traffic on Fifth avenue, New York, the most heavily traveled street in the world, as evidence of its value.

Walter G. Cooper, chairman of the traffic committee of the board of commissioners, said that opening up new traffic arteries to pass traffic through town outside of the congested area would relieve the situation.

Mayor Sims concurred heartily in Mr. Cooper's statement and said that work is now in progress to make the influence of the administration and of practically every other department of the city government will be lined up against Alderman Armistead's proposal to extend the non-parking area $80,000 a year and as a result of the city's financial condition would make it necessary to reduce funds of other branches of city service by that amount next year.

One Way Traffic.
Forsyth street was suggested for one way traffic north bound throughout its length and Peachtree and Whitehall for one way traffic south bound between the Forsyth street intersections.

Alderman Jesse Armistead said that the Georgia Railway and Power company should build subways for its street cars under Peachtree, and Forsyth streets.

Other speakers proposed a campaign of education on traffic laws for all motorists, street signs to indicate parking and non-parking areas and the kinds of turns permitted at each intersection.

The finance committee of council at its meeting Monday will consider a petition that traffic information signs be placed on the principal downtown streets.

Figures quoted by Chief of Police Beavers and George Deibert on the number of arrests made for traffic violations were taken by Mayor Sims to indicate an inactive condition on the part of police officers. He mounted on motorcycles are now assigned exclusively to traffic duty and traffic officers are posted at all main downtown intersections. The police records show that all policemen in the city, and the department includes 340 men, have made an average of only 12 cases a day for traffic violations during the last five days and that the average for the year, up to September 21, is only 15 per day.

Cannot Enforce Laws.
"Chief Beavers quoted these figures and admitted almost in the same breath that he couldn't enforce the present traffic laws," the mayor said. "Photographers for the safety council took a dozen pictures of traffic violations in an hour's time. It is reasonable to suppose that if photographers can find traffic violations, policemen can find them too."

The mayor expressed decided opposition to the proposal for increasing the police force by 500 men, as suggested by Alderman Armistead. Birmingham, he said, has a police department of 170 men to cover a territory of more than 50 square miles while Atlanta has a police department of 340 men to cover about 30 square miles.

"There is too much specialization in the department," he said. "One man is assigned to watch for left hand turns and other to watch lights and another to chase speeders and another to hunt whisky and another to hunt thieves and another for this and another for that, and they don't do anything else. They all ought to have some special purpose, perhaps, but they are sworn in as officers, first and last to enforce the laws, and to enforce all of them."

Miles Heads Game Wardens.
St. Louis, Mo., September 21.—The seventeenth annual convention of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners ended this afternoon with the election of Judge Lee Miles, of Little Rock, Ark., as president.

ADVERTISE FLOYD FAIR OVER WIDE TERRITORY

Rome, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Advertising matter about the Floyd County fair is today being scattered broadcast over northwest Georgia and northeast Alabama. One representative of the Floyd county farm bureau, the organization that is staging the fair, left the city this morning for four northeast Alabama, while another went to Dalton and other towns in that section.

Efforts are being made by the promoters of the fair and local business men to have the attendance on opening day to break all records this year. The merchants of the city are cooperating by issuing trade receipts which when presented on the opening day at the fair grounds will admit the holder for half price. It is expected that more than 7,000 people will pass through the gates on the opening day.

Dr. Blocker Returns.
Rome, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Dr. J. Blocker, president of Shorter college, has just returned from attending the annual meeting of the Serepta Baptist association which was held near Elberton. Dr. Blocker addressed the convention on "Christian Education."

Dr. Blocker announced that his engagement to fill the pulpit of the Second Baptist church of Atlanta on Sunday has been set forward until early in October.

Add More Teachers.
Rome, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Because of an unexpectedly large enrollment in the public schools of this city, it has been found necessary to secure additional teachers and the board of education is now seeking for another to teach "overflow" pupils.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET TO BE HELD IN POLK

Codartown, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—The annual Polk County Sunday School convention will be held at the Rockmart Methodist church, September 22. The theme will be "The New Day in Religious Education."

Speakers from the State Sunday School association, including R. D. Webb, superintendent, and Miss Myra Batchelder, among the other speakers will be Miss Ione Aiverson, Rev. C. A. Vane, pastor First Baptist church, Codartown; Rev. J. R. McGregor, pastor First Presbyterian church, Codartown; and Rev. B. F. Pin, pastor Methodist church, Rockmart.

New York Stores Crippled by Lack Of Space for Ads
New York, September 21.—Continued lack of advertising space in New York's strike hampered newspapers will be reduced in all branches of finance, commerce and industry, in the opinion of business executives who have observed the effects of the longer crippling of the daily importers of the store doing the advertising because of lack of advertising space.

Department store heads, even those catering to permanent customers, said the inability to promote sales through the newspaper columns were providing a serious handicap at the opening of the fall season. And Wall street, always dubious as to the value of the small amount of space it uses in the dailies, was convinced its clients had learned to depend on newspaper advertising for their information on financial offerings. Several big offerings of bonds which were to be put out last week were postponed because of lack of advertising space.

Bernard F. Gimbel, vice president of the Gimbel Brothers, Inc., was quoted in public statements as saying he thought the strike would be injurious to both large and small stores.

Others depend upon newspaper advertising for much of our selling power," he added. "It is the newspaper advertising combined with the standing of the store doing the advertising, which makes the buyer realize his need of some article which otherwise he might have neglected to purchase."

Harold W. Bonwit, secretary of Bonwit, Teller & Company, said he had no doubt that the strike lasts much longer we will feel a huge effect. Newspaper advertising is doubtless the most valuable advertising medium, and the retail stores are deprived of this medium they will feel the loss more and more. There has been a slight falling off of sales in the stores.

P. A. Conne, vice president, Saks & Co., said: "The loss of newspaper advertising is especially important at the beginning of a season, as now, when the stores are introducing new styles and paving the way for the new season."

FLORIDA WOMAN SAFE IN JAPANESE QUAKE

Winter Park, Fla., September 21.—In a message received from Secretary of States Hughes it was learned today that Miss Margaret Rogers, social worker of Hobbs college, who is connected with a Japanese school for girls, near Yokohama, is safe and had escaped the great Japanese disaster.

The school is conducted by the Congregational Home Missionary and is partly supported by the Margaret Rogers club, composed of prominent women throughout Florida.

FORM ORGANIZATION OF TRUCK FARMERS

Thomasville, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—The Coolidge Co-operative Truck Growers' association is a new Thomas county organization and bids fair to do much developing in the growing of truck in the county.

This association will hold an important meeting at the city hall in Coolidge Saturday, when plans will be made for the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, and application made for a charter. A question to be discussed at the meeting is the early destruction of green cotton stalks. There will also be the adoption of the cow, hog and hen program as a means to be carried out by the association.

Get 2,300 Barrels Real Beer in Raid Of Chicago Bars

Chicago, September 21.—Mayor William E. Dever's campaign to make Chicago dry resulted in seizure of 2,300 barrels of beer and the closing of 16 notorious saloons Friday.

The beer was seized by police and federal agents, who, having been tipped off, sprang a surprise party on beer runners as they prepared to load through the brewery gates and past the guards with heavily loaded trucks.

Early publication of details of the three murders in the "beer war," was promised Friday by Chief of Detectives Hughes. The killings are about cleared up, he said.

Police efforts were set back, however, when Judge David of superior court released "Red" Golden from custody on the grounds that there was insufficient evidence to hold him. Golden is alleged to have been with former Deputy Dan McFall and an unknown man, one of whom is believed to have killed Jerry O'Connor, beer runner of the O'Donnell gang. Earlier announcements Friday indicated that Golden would be charged with the murder at once.

MRS. CELIA WILLIAMS, CIVIL WAR NURSE, DEAD

Mobile, Ala., September 21.—Mrs. Celia Williams, aged 85 years, who was a nurse in the Civil war died here last night. She was a former resident of Atlanta and during the war between the states nursed both the Confederate and Federal dead in battle around Atlanta.

WILLIAM TUDOR, MINING EXPERT, REPORTED DEAD

Boston, September 21.—Word has been received of the death of William Tudor, mining expert at Venice, Italy. Mr. Tudor was graduated with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Bishop William Lawrence from Harvard in 1871, and after taking up portrait painting engaged in many occupations in Georgia and Florida, as president of the Live Oak Phosphate company.

CALIF. STATE BUREAU WARNS OIL INVESTORS

Sacramento, Cal., September 21.—A warning to citizens of California who may be contemplating investment in oil securities was made public here today by the state corporation department, which declared that "from authentic sources we are receiving almost hourly confirmation of the report that the cure of decline in production in these territories (the Santa Fe Springs, Signal Hill and Huntington Beach districts) is much more precipitous than the average geologist has heretofore filed with the corporation department."

HIGH SCHOOL LAD IS SUICIDE AFTER HAZING

Rushville, Ind., September 21.—County authorities and school officials of New Salem, near here, today were conducting investigations into the hazing of Vernon A. Walker, 16-year-old high school student of that place who committed suicide as the result, his parents assert, of brooding over the treatment he received.

Officials of the school said they were unaware that hazing of a serious nature had taken place and announced they will assist the authorities in a complete investigation of the case.

Delay Court Opening.

Louisville, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—The city court of Louisville did not meet in its regular monthly session this week, because of the forced absence of certain members of the local bar. Judge M. C. Barwick announced that the court will not convene before the third Monday in October.

RAIL MERGER PLAN AWAITS CONFERENCE

Washington, September 21.—The administration policy regarding compulsory consolidation of railroads proposed by President Harding at Kansas City, will not be determined until after the president consults with the Interstate commerce commission, which has a voluntary plan worked out, and with Senator Cummins, of Iowa, chairman of the senate Interstate commerce committee, an authority on railroads.

Visitors have quoted the president as favoring consolidations, but a White House spokesman declared Friday that the president could not be responsible for unauthorized remarks of callers.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakness, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care-free time of life.

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well-being of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive a care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

SPECIAL---THIS WEEK

The Past Three Months In World History

The vacation season, including the summer months of June, July, and August, has been anything but a vacation season for the world at large. Vast changes have come which seem to presage events of even wider importance in the near future. A big feature in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, September 22d, consists of a resume of the news of the world during the past three months. It will be especially valuable for those who have been out of touch with important events during the vacation season. The subjects covered are: Reparations and the Ruhr; Russia and Ireland on the Way to Peace; Disarmament Treaty Signed; Further Progress Toward World Peace; Typhoons, Volcanos, and Earthquakes; The Greco-Italian Imbroglio; President Harding's Final Tour; The Progress of Prohibition; Wages and the Twelve-Hour Day; Payments on Our Foreign Debts; Aviation Goes Forward. Under each heading is a concise, well-written review of the subject, bringing it up-to-date.

Other Important News-Features:

What Women Have Done With the Vote
Many mere men, to say nothing of the women, will be enlightened and interested in the summing up of the results as shown in this article.

Good and Evil From the Earthquake
For weeks we have heard of the vast destruction in Japan. Out of the havoc is emerging a more optimistic feeling and plans are under way for a bigger and better Japan.

What People Think of the Doctors
The result of an inquiry by a member of the Chicago Medical Society.

The Hard Part of the Hard Coal Settlement
Now that the strike is settled, temporarily at least, the public anxiously looks forward to see how much it is going to cost in the way of increased prices for coal. For this reason, this article is enlightening.

"FUN from the PRESS" is the Nation's Fulfillment

From Coast to Coast, and Gulf to Lakes, it amuses millions nightly. In every city or town where good pictures are flashed on a silver screen, "FUN from the PRESS" is a welcome weekly visitor. And, as The Literary Digest reflects the serious thoughts of the nation, so does this rollicking little reel mirror its happier hours. It contains the choicest gems of gaiety from the country's premier journals and jokesmiths, the timeliest topics, the brightest banter, and the funniest yarns, all selected newly each week. And then—the very best of all this sparkling mirth is animated into cartoons, and constant flicker of fun each ending in a riot of laughter. It is the celluloid criterion of American humor and wit. If you enjoy clean fun look for the sign, at all leading theaters, of FUN from the PRESS. Produced by The Literary Digest. Distributed by W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

BLACK MONEY

By J. S. Fletcher.

Next Week: "DANCERS IN THE DARK."
By Dorothy Spaul.

In a few minutes Hetherwick and Mappery were on their way to the Paddington flat. There they confirmed Garsten's story of Baseverie's visit in a talk with the caretaker, who showed them a note, which he assured them was in Mme. Listorelle's handwriting, granting the physician permission to enter the apartment.

They examined the place and found that a quantity of her note-paper bearing her address and crest had been strewn about.

Mappery took possession of the note to the caretaker and Hetherwick gathered some samples of Mme. Listorelle's paper.

It was late, but they aroused Lord Moradale who also identified the writing as that of his fiancée. Early next morning Hetherwick found a note from Mappery saying he had gone out on an important notion of his own, so the barrister looked up Matherfield.

The inspector concluded that Baseverie's visit to the flat was to get some of Mme. Listorelle's stationery, knowing that the safety deposit officials would hardly honor an order on any other paper.

Lord Moradale, Hetherwick, Matherfield and Quigman—a police officer—were at the Imperial Safe Deposit building soon after.

Quigman's being told Hetherwick was his acquaintance with solicitors, it being Matherfield's theory that Ambrose and Baseverie would send a solicitor with the order to open the safe.

It turned out, indeed to be a solicitor—a Mr. Garrowell, who had often, he said, visited the place on Mme. Listorelle's business and was astonished when he had heard Matherfield's story.

But the four watchers, who had followed him from the safe deposit building to his office came too late, for the box in which he carried the Russian gema ring and the hand-cuffs on Baseverie or on Ambrose—perhaps on both! This is how it figured the thing; he went on with a glance at a time-table, and the young lady secretary in their power, safe somewhere in London. They forced Madame, last night, to write that letter to Mr. Garrowell. Mr. Garrowell got the small box containing the jewels, and he sent it off, already, by express delivery, to Southampton. It will be there early this evening, and the men will be there to meet it. Quigman, you come with me. We've just nice time to catch the train."

"We're no nearer knowing where the women are," groaned Hetherwick, as the officer left. "I'll tell you what it is, Mr. Hetherwick," exclaimed Robmore, "this house is empty! Empty of people, anyway."

It struck him that this might be the place where the two ladies were detained, remarked Hetherwick.

"Well, soon see about that," declared Robmore. "I'll search the place from top to bottom."

He led the way up the main staircase. On the uppermost floor there were only two rooms—one was unfurnished, at the door of the other, a few inches ajar, the detective paused.

"Look, Mr. Hetherwick!" he said. "Here's recent work! Do you see that—a strong bolt, more like a bar, has been fitted on the outside of this door? And the door itself fitted with a new patent lock—key outside, and good Lord—a chain as well! Might be in a jail! But what's inside?"

He pushed the door open and revealed a large room, fitted with two small beds, easy-chairs, a table on which newspapers lay.

"Jail, did I say?" he exclaimed. "Why, this is a jail! Window fitted with iron bars. This probably, is where these ladies were locked up. But—there's gone! I figure it out like this: the landlady who's acted as sort of jailer, when she made that discovery yonder, came back here, got her outdoor things and cleared off. But before she went, she'd the decency to slip up here, undo that chain, slip the bolt back and turn the key! Then, no doubt, she made tracks at express speed, leaving the ladies to do what they liked. And they, Mr. Hetherwick, having a bit of common sense about 'em, did what I should have done—they looked it as quick as possible. That's that, sir!"

"Then I'm off, Robmore," said Hetherwick. "Probably they'd go to Penney's office."

At the office he found that Penney, however, had gone out after

"Afternoon, Mister," he said to Hetherwick. "Ain't been a soul in or out of that house since you left, Mappery. Seems to me it's locked up."

Hetherwick advanced boldly to the door of Number 66, and knocked loudly on the stout panel, supplementing this with a ring at the bell.

He heard the sound of a stout bolt being withdrawn; then of a key being turned. The door was opened—only sufficiently to show an unusually big woman, an Amazon in appearance. Hetherwick got a hand on the door and a foot across the threshold.

"Is Doctor Baseverie in?" he inquired.

"Nobody of that name here!" she answered and suddenly banged the door to, narrowly missing Hetherwick's hand. A second later the bolt slipped and the key turned. And Hetherwick, as with a swift illumination, comprehended things.

"Mappery!" he exclaimed. "Sure as fate! Those ladies are in there! Trapped!"

The kidnapping, it turns out, was a scheme to get some gems Mme. Listorelle had. Matherfield goes in search of them while Hetherwick, denied admittance to a boarding house where a clue had led them, believes the women are concealed there.

Ambrose.

Going down the street and retreating into a doorway, the three men held a consultation, suddenly interrupted by Garsten.

"The woman's leavin' the house!" he said. "Lockin' the door behind her, too! Goin' up the street!"

"Follow!" Hetherwick ordered.

Garsten and the hungry woman presently disappeared round a corner.

"That's the result of our call, Mappery!" said Hetherwick. "She's gone somewhere to tell somebody! We'll keep a close watch on the house, until Garsten comes back."

The woman came first, hurrying up the street, flustered, distressed, upset and reentered the house.

Garsten came and told his story.

"Round that corner," he said, "you get into a regular slum. Little streets, alleys, and so on. In one of 'em, Pencroft street, where there's a sort of open-air market, there's a good-sized piece of blank wall, with an iron-getting a telephone call, but at his chambers he met his caretaker.

"Been a young lady here inquiring for you, Mr. Hetherwick," said the man. "She said—but there she is, sir—coming back!"

Hetherwick saw Rhona coming across the square. Hurrying to meet her he took both her hands in his in a fashion that brought the color to her cheeks.

"You're all right—safe?" he asked quickly. "Sure."

"I'm all right and quite safe, thank you," she answered.

Hetherwick led her into his sitting-room. Then suddenly and impulsively he bent and kissed her.

"By Gad!" he said in a low voice. "I didn't know how anxious I was about you until I saw you."

Rhona detailed her adventures

ing toward the exit. Hetherwick's arm was suddenly gripped by Rhona.

"There!" she exclaimed. "There—the man in the gray coat and fawn hat! That's the man who drove the car!"

Hetherwick looked and saw Baseverie lift a hand in recognition of a young faced man who carried in his right hand a small square parcel.

But he saw more—close behind this young man came Matherfield on one hand and Quigman on the other. They drew closer as he neared the gate, and on its other side the detectives drew closer to Baseverie.

"Now, then!" whispered Robmore. "It was all over so swiftly that neither Hetherwick nor Rhona knew exactly how the thing was done. Before they had realized that the men were trapped, or the gaping bystanders had realized that something was happening under their very noses, Baseverie and his man were two safely handcuffed prisoners in the midst of a little group of silent men who were hurrying both away.

Within a moment, captors and captives were lost in the outer reaches of the station. Then the two watchers suddenly realized that Matherfield, holding the square parcel in his hand, was standing close by a grim and highly satisfied smile in his eyes. He held the parcel up before them.

"Very neat, Mr. Hetherwick, very neat indeed!" he said. "Uncommonly neat—eh?"

But Hetherwick knew that he was not referring to the parcel.

The Formula.

Rhona went back to her old quarters at the little hotel in Sarney Street for that night; and next morning Hetherwick came round to her with an armful of newspapers.

"I wish one had a few more particulars on one point—and yet I don't see how one's to get them," he said.

"What point?" asked Rhona.

"The sealed packet, containing the formula of your grandfather's invention," replied Hetherwick.

"Where is it? What—precisely—is it?"

Did Ambrose get it from him? Has Baseverie got it? Did they get rid of him so that they could keep his secret about Madame Listorelle to themselves and blackmail her and her sister, or that they could rob him of his invention and turn it to their own profit?

"I don't think there's any doubt that they murdered my grandfather because of that formula," Rhona said. "Only—think, too, they'd a double motive. The secret about Madame Listorelle was their second string. Probably they believed that Lady Rivers would be an easy prey. And I think she would have been if she hadn't had Major Penney to fall back on. I know she was dreadfully upset after Baseverie's first visit. So I put it this way—always have: they thought they could sell grandfather's invention for a lot of money, and get another lot of Lady Rivers and Madame Listorelle as blackmail."

EXPLORERS MAY BE DROWNED

Kingman, Ariz., September 21.—One of the boats used by the exploration party of the United States geological survey, which on August 22 started on a voyage to chart the Colorado river, came floating down the river today at a point 200 miles below the point where the explorers are supposed to be, according to word received here tonight.

The boat, marked U. S. Gs, was sighted near the Katherine mine, which is located near the river. The Colorado river has been running high and its waters are swift and dangerous in the narrow gorges through which the party is traveling on its charting trip.

Atlanta Leaders Offer Taxation Evil Remedies

Classification of property for taxation under the ad valorem system was the only remedy for tax evils in Georgia on which six speakers were in accord at the tax discussion at the City club luncheon Friday afternoon.

Governor Clifford Walker, Dudley K. Cowles, James A. Holloman, Sam Slicer, Walter McElreath, and Charles McKinney were the speakers. The last five were members of the club's special tax committee.

The discussion was opened by Governor Walker who asserted that the present uniform ad valorem tax has broken down, reaching only one-third to one-half of the people of the state and raising insufficient revenue. He asked assistance for the tax commission during the session here next month.

Education Neglected.

Mr. Cowles laid particular stress on the inadequate support given education in Georgia. School needs, he said, and steps taken to raise the amount of revenue such a survey showed necessary.

Mr. Holloman said that the state ad valorem tax is the least of Georgia's tax burden, raising only $5,000,000 of the $110,000,000 raised for all purposes by direct taxation in Georgia. Classification of property and a tax rate on each class that it can legitimately bear and an income tax to reach persons who do not own taxable property were his recommendations for increasing revenue. He advised a legal limit on the amount of tax to be levied in some communities, and a higher assessment basis and in Clearwater, Fla., was $9.40.

The most prosperous states and sections are those in which education is best, he said, and where, consequently, the best highway and schools are found, he said.

About 33,000 women are employed in the federal government offices in Washington.

Observe Masonic Day

Special Services Planned by Church in Hapeville.

The First Baptist church at Hapeville will observe Masonic day Sunday at 11 o'clock. The pastor, Dr. R. J. W. Graham, will preach a special sermon. Invitations have been extended to the local lodge and to a large number of adjoining lodges.

The church now has under construction a fine church auditorium with modern Sunday school rooms.

The church will have its corner-stone laying exercise October 15. The fifth Sunday in September will be home-coming day, when all of the living former pastors, together with all other members who live elsewhere now, are invited to be present.

ACOUSTICS IMPROVED

First Methodist Church Auditorium Ready for Services.

After being closed for nearly two months while a special acoustical treatment was being applied to the walls, the auditorium of First Methodist church will be re-opened for service at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. While the First Methodist church is one of the handsome church edifices in Atlanta, ever since its erection the auditorium has presented a knotty problem in acoustics. Several attempts have been made to correct this fault without marked success. Great interest centers around the result of the treatment just installed.

This year marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the organizing of the First Methodist congregation, and the work done in the auditorium is one of the features by which this event is being celebrated. The congregation has this year undertaken an extensive progressive program. A few days ago the official board authorized the erection of a Sunday school annex at the rear of the church, work to begin as soon as plans can be completed.

KAMP KILLKARE CLOSING SIXTH SEASON TONIGHT

Kamp Killkare will close its sixth season tonight with a party to which all former campers and friends of present campers have been invited. The camp is located near Gainesville, and is considered one of the most popular resorts in that section of the country.

The club house was completely destroyed by fire last November, but A. F. N. Everett, Atlanta architect and owner of Kamp Killkare, rebuilt it, using every care to see that the new structure was larger and more artistic than the one which was destroyed. Closing season last year, the camp was a success, with a comedy skit, "One Turkish Night."

SHOEMAKERS GET PEAK WAGE PACT

Don't Heed Advice Of Mrs. Belmont

Drockton, Mass., September 21.—War-time wages will be paid shoe workers in this city beginning October 14, as a result of the signing of a new agreement by the Brockton Shoe Manufacturers' association and the joint council of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union Friday.

The agreement which provides for a 10 per cent wage increase which goes into effect in all factories on October 14, except seven, which are so-called lower grade factories, and are exempt until December 1 in the piece work prices.

The increase, although practically a restoration of the cut ordered in March, 1922, by the state board of conciliation and arbitration, will bring the wages of shoe workers in this district to the highest point reached in history, and to the scale in effect during the world war.

Approximately 15,500 workers will benefit by the increase, it is estimated.

Modern economic conditions, Mrs. Belmont asserted, have much to do with the failure of marriage.

"Too many girls these days have supported themselves before marriage and when they marry they feel that some one else is supporting them and they become discontented," she said.

PLAN ORGANIZATION OF THOMAS FARMERS

Thomasville, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—The program for the organization of the Thomas County Farmers' association was planned at a meeting held here, at which B. W. Jarman, one of the riders, was badly shocked and his collarbone was broken.

The other, G. F. Young, was slightly bruised. One of the horses was killed.

The Ashburn high school football team defeated the high school team of Ocala 19 to 0. The game was marred by fumbles, especially by the visitors.

During the first two quarters Ashburn did all its scoring and was never in danger. However, there was a fourth quarter rally by Ocala that almost netted a counter. Davis for the locals was the outstanding star, making a pretty 35-yard run during the third quarter. Coach Hardy Cutts' team will likely be heard from in a great deal this year judging by the showing this afternoon.

SCHOOL CONFERENCE IS HELD IN TIFTON

Tifton, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—A regional conference between the heads of the Georgia department of education and county and city school officials was held in Tifton today at the high school auditorium, here.

The session began at 10 o'clock and lasted until 3:30, with an hour and a quarter lunch. Seven counties, Ben Hill, Brooks, Colquitt, Cook, Irwin, Tift, and Turner, and seven town school systems, Apalaha, Arabi, Ashburn, Barlow, Burt, Lillie, and Norman Park, with the principal of the second district A. M. school, participated. County superintendent of Schools A. J. Ammons was host for the conference.

The delegation came to Tifton from Waycross and went from here to Atlanta where the next 40 and 50 attending. The session began at Columbus, September 10, and will conclude at Blue Ridge, September 29. State Superintendent of Schools N. H. Barr, who headed the visiting delegation which included M. L. Duggan, J. O. Martin, I. S. Smith, Tom Wisdom and others.

LITHONIA YOUTH DIES OF SPINAL MENINGITIS

Lithonia, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—George Sidney Johnson Jr., 15, died here today at the home of his mother, Mrs. G. S. Johnson. He has been sick only two days with meningitis. His father died after a sickness of two days only three weeks ago.

George Johnson was an alumnus of Tech High school, Atlanta, and was a member of The Tech High band. He was a charter member of the Boy Scouts troop, Lithonia, and was very popular in the social life of the community.

Besides his mother, he is survived by two brothers, J. C. and James Johnson; a sister, Valeria Johnson and an aunt, Mrs. N. H. Johnson. Funeral services will be held from the Lithonia Baptist church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. T. C. Burnett officiating. Interment will be at Lithonia cemetery.

Atlanta Is Speaker.

Americus, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Judge Price Gilbert has returned to Atlanta after an address before the Rotary club of Americus in which his subject was the federal constitution. Judge Gilbert, who is a member of the supreme court of Georgia, told the Rotarians and their guests that the individual guaranteed by the constitution is not a citizen of the United States, but that the demand for liberty is founded, and that these must be maintained if the nation is to survive.

Baptists Close Meet.

Sparta, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—The final session of the Washington Baptist association, which has been in session at North Baptist church, near Mayfield in this county, was held yesterday afternoon. The meeting of the south Georgia district, attended over 400 by the association.

To Raise More Pears.

Thomasville, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—W. R. Tucker, of the development department of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, is spending some time in this section increasing interest in the growing of pineapple pears for market. Many of these pears have already been planted and Mr. Tucker states that the road has shipped a great many, but that the demand for them is very large and many more could be used. These pears are especially adapted to the soil and climate of south Georgia, and are said to be free from all danger of blight.

Let's Hope Girls

Don't Heed Advice Of Mrs. Belmont

Colorado Springs, Colo., September 21.—Chiefly because "marriage is a sort of slavery," Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, of New York city, president of the national women's party, declared here yesterday that she would not recommend marriage for any girl.

"I would not say, in so many words, that marriage is a failure," she said, "but it seems to me that statistics speak for themselves."

Most of the opposition to the equal rights movement comes from the women "of the clinging vine type," Mrs. Belmont said. "Intelligent men are with us. Among the men our only opponents are the 'small town men' and the church organizations," she declared.

Mrs. Belmont arrived here yesterday to preside over the western states conference of the national women's party Saturday and to attend the equal rights memorial pageant, which is to be given in the Garden of the Gods Sunday afternoon.

RIDERS ARE INJURED IN TURNER FAIR RACE

Ashburn, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Turner county fair had the second big day today and preparations are complete for Georgia association day tomorrow. Many visitors were in town today from outside the county.

An old fashioned spelling bee was held in the tobacco warehouse tonight. Two riders in the potato race this afternoon had a collision and W. C. Jarman, one of the riders, was badly shocked and his collarbone was broken.

The other, G. F. Young, was slightly bruised. One of the horses was killed.

The Ashburn high school football team defeated the high school team of Ocala 19 to 0. The game was marred by fumbles, especially by the visitors.
